TRAINS KILLED MAN WHO SLEPT ON TRACK

Body of Harry Jenkins, Farm Had, Found near Grenoble Station—Had been Mutilated by Passig Trains—Coroner Says Accident.

Harry Jenkins, an employe of C.F. Kindred, of Grenoble, was run over and killed by a northbound train on the New Hope branch of the Reading R. R. last Monday night. The body was found Tuesday morning, when it was picked up by the crew of an early southbound train near Grenoble station. Other trains had passed over the body, which was horribly mangled and cut up. It was recognized by oneof Jenkins' friends, who worked on the same farm with him.

According to reliable report deceased was in Ivyland Monday afternon and had a check cashed. It is believed that he attempted to walk along the railroad to his home and being overcome by drowsiness lay down on the track and slept. He probably never knew what struck him.

Coroner Howard P. White, of Doylstown, on Tuesday investigated the death of Jenkins, who was about 50 years of age and is said to have a married daughter living near Doylestown.

The engineer of the train that killed Jenkins in the dark, did not know of the accident. It was the engineer of the milk train that came along in the early gray of the morning that discovered the mutilated body.

The Coroner gave a certificate of accidental death.

CONVICTED OF ROBBING EMPLOYER

Italian Quarryman Who Shot William H. Yerkes, of Norristown, is Found Guilty.

Orlando Pauletto was found guilty in Norristown court last Wednesday morning of shooting and robbing William H. Yerkes, a well-to-do quarryman, of Norristown on May 22, last.

Pauletto was identified by Yerkes as one of the two men who held him up. Yerkes said the men approached him with drawn revolvers, and that he asked them not to shoot. He said the men pulled him toward a quarry hole filled with water and that they shot him three times.

Mr. Yerkes lingered between life and death for weeks, but finally recovered. The bullets are still in his body. He was born in Hatboro and spent his early life here.

The defendant had worked in the quarry and knew of the habit of Mr. Yerkes in carrying cash to pay the hands.

Pauletto's defense was an alibi that he was in Philadelphia at the time.

AN ANCIENT HORSE COMPANY

Eighty-seventh Annual Meeting of the Warren Company at Hartsville.

The 87th annual meeting of the Warren Horse Company was held at the Boland house, Hartsville, on Thursday afternoon and evening. For the twenty-fifth consecutive time John M. Darrah was elected president of the company, and for the twenty-eighth consecutive time Stacy B. Beans was elected treasurer, Joseph Carrell, Jr., was re-elected secretary, having filled the office since the death of Robert Thompson Engart. The death of two members, Charles T. Dager and Oliver Parry was reported, and suitable resolutions of respect adopted. Three new members, Henry Hoff, H. B. MacCormack and J. M. Carr were elected, making the present membership thirty-six. After an elegant supper served in a beautiful decorated dining room the meeting reconvened and among other things taken under consideration the macadamizing of the Old York road from the Street road to Centerville. It was decided to send a resolution of request that the Highway Department at the earliest possible moment proceed with the work. It was also decided to send these resolutions to Senators Penrose and Buckman. The members of this ancient company are of the best and most influential people of the community, and stand firmly for whatever tends to good citizenship and the benefit of the community. This is one of the oldest and most respectful organizations in this section of the State, but very young in vitality.

TEAS FILES CONTEST TO KEEP OFFICE

Claims Ballot Was Defective and That He Was Elected Horsham Supervisor.

An election contest has been filed in Norristown court over the office of Supervisor in Horsham. William Teas, defeated Republican candidate, is the contestant.

The ballots as printed showed the following candidates:

ROAD SUPERVISOR.
(Mark Two.)

Norton Downs (4 years)..Republican
William Teas (2 years)...Republican
Elmer E. Potts .....Democratic
George W. Stong .....Democratic

The election return sheet shows that Downs received 112 votes. Teas 102 votes, Potts 109 votes and Stong 102 votes. The board thereupon declared Downs and Potts elected.

Teas contends that because of the failure to set forth the term for which Potts was to hold office, that therefore the votes cast for Potts were illegal, as was the return of the election officers certifying that he was elected.

Teas asks the court to declare him elected for the two years term.

The court made the following order: "And now, December 7, 1911, the petition is adjudged sufficient and counsel will prepare an order and decree for the signature of the Court and also file bond as provided by law."

Ogontz and Ashbourne

COMMISSIONERS ORGANIZE.

George D. Widener Again Chosen President—Officials Reappointed.

The newly elected commissioners of Cheltenham township were sworn in by Justice Comly at the township building on Monday morning.

They are: George D. Widener, Ogontz district; W. S. Schellenger, Wyncote district; E. Clarence Miller, Melrose district; Frank McCreary, Cheltenham district; Robert Scott, Glenside district; and John A. Stahr, Ogontz district.

The board organized by electing Mr. Widener, president; Mr. Schellenger, vice president, and appointed Edwin Linson, secretary; William McIntyre, road engineer; Evans & Dettra, solicitors; Robert Lindsay, chief of police.

Highway committee, Stahr and Scott. Police committee, Schellenger and McCreary. Finance committee, Schellenger and Miller.

BABY'S BODY NEAR YORK ROAD

The body of a white boy baby, less than a month old, was found submerged in a stream of water near the Keller mills Monday evening, near Ogontz. Wrapped in some discarded garments of a woman the child had evidently been buried into the water within the last few days. The discovery was made by William Fox, an elderly man.

Chief Lindsay ordered the removal of the body to Nice's morgue, at Jenkintown, and the Cheltenham department will co-operate with Coroner King, of Montgomery county, in the investigation.

Davis L. Lewis is having his residence on the York road repainted.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Shallcross, of Gratersford, Pa., were on Thursday guests of Dr. and Mrs. A. T. Clayton.

Mrs. Dursley is reported as having rented the George B. Wood store property, on York road and Montgomery avenue.

It is stated that a trimming store is to be opened in the building lately occupied by the colonial kitchen, which closed its doors a month or more ago. Carpenters are at work installing shelves, etc.

The second of the series of entertainments being given by the High school will be held on Wednesday evening next, December 13th, when Hamlin Garland, the noted author, will give a lecture entitled, "Joys of the Trail."

At the annual meeting of the Old York Road Fire Company, in the fire house at Ashbourne on Saturday, these officers were elected: President, Harvey Gourley, of Melrose Park; vice president, C. Hollingshead, of Elkins Park; treasurer, Charles C. Ferguson, of Ashbourne, and secretary, William H. Calverly, of Ashbourne.

The school board of Cheltenham township organized on Monday afternoon by electing J. Howard Ervien, president; Dr. H. D. Johnson, secretary; Dr. A. T. Clayton, treasurer. The board now consists of Mr. Ervien, of Ogontz; Dr. Johnson, of Cheltenham; Dr. Clayton, of Ogontz; John Houldin, Cheltenham; Harry Refsnyder, Glenside; Henry Spaulding, Wyncote; W. J. Corson, Oak Lane Terrace.

The Cheltenham High school foot ball team ended the season by defeating the Alumni on Thanksgiving day. The club was successful this year winning eight out of eleven games, 122 points to 50 points against them. The boys of the school are now preparing for their basketball and track work. They will shortly start the practice at Widener's training shed. They have selected for their manager, Charles Sharpless, and their captain, Walter Lorrimer. The 1912 football club will be managed by Edward Ervien and Captain Walter Lorrimer.

WILLOW GROVE

THIEVES STEAL CASH

Nolan's Store and Mineral Springs Inn Robbed.

Before daylight on Tuesday morning a thief robbed Nolan's store. Entrance was made by cutting a piece of glass from a kitchen door and unfastening the lock. From the kitchen the thief made his way to the store and robbed the cash register of about $8.50 in change. They also broke open the Keystone telephone box, which contained a small amount of money. Nothing but money was taken and no clew was left behind. The robbery was committed by some one with a knowledge of the premises.

On the same night a thief or thieves forced an entrance into the Mineral Springs Inn and secured about $28 in cash. It is supposed this robbery followed the one at Nolan's store, as it was committed in a similar manner, the intruders having knowledge of the premises.

To Mr. and Mrs. David Nolan, a daughter, on Wednesday.

The large wheat crop on the Cannon farms was threshed out this week.

William Homer is spending some time with relatives at Hilltown, Bucks county.

ABINGTON

COMMISSIONERS ORGANIZE.

Ambler Succeeds High as Solicitor—Other Officials Re-elected.

The newly elected board of Township Commissioners organized on Monday afternoon at five o'clock, when Squire Calvin Williams administered the oath of office to Charles O. Kruger, William P. Albrecht, Edwin Hallowell, Prof. John D. Mahoney and David Benninghoff. Albrecht, Mahoney and Benninghoff are the new members.

Charles O. Kruger was re-elected president; William P. Albrecht, vice president; Captain Nicholas Baggs, secretary and town clerk. Chief of police, Gideon S. Lever; solicitor, Harry Ambler, Jr. Mr. Ambler takes the place of Samuel H. High. The salary of the solicitor is fixed at $300 per year, which is a decrease of $50, while the secretary and chief of police salaries remain the same.

E. A. Richardson, janitor at the township building, was given an increase of $5 per month.

The board will meet as heretofore on the third Thursday evening of each month.

Committees appointed: Police, President Kruger, Benninghoff and Mahoney. Finance, Hallowell, Albrecht and Mahoney. Highway, Edwin Hallowell, chairman, and all the members of the commissioners.

The only business other than the organization was the ordering of advertisement for bids for the collection of garbage.

JUNK DEALER ACQUITTED.

Edward Penico, of Philadelphia, was tried at Norristown this week, upon the charge of receiving stolen goods. Samuel H. High represented the defendant and Assistant District Attorney John B. Evans, the Commonwealth.

Paul and Elwood Thomas, two negro boys, of Abington, testified that they sold a small quantity of brass to the defendant which they had stolen at his instigation and upon his promise to take all blame.

The defendant denied the charges made by these boys. He claimed a "double," stating that a junk dealer who resembles him in many respects, had been arrested last Friday for buying this brass. He said these boys had had reputations for truthfulness and honesty.

The jury found a verdict of not guilty.

Miss Ethel Boutcher is laid up with the grip.

Irwin S. Niblock has gone for a three month's visit to Portland, Oregon.

Officer Walter Russell is confined to his home with rheumatism and the grip.

The case of George Payne, autoist, was postponed till next term of court at Norristown.

The Denegre residence on Rydal road is now completed and makes a handsome appearance.

The Abington football team were defeated on Saturday by Jenkintown in a score of 5 to 0. Our boys only lost two games through the entire season. The first game was on Thanksgiving day when they played a club entirely above their class, and they had not recovered when they played their last game.

At the meeting of the Abington Fire Company on Tuesday night, $43 was turned in, the receipts of a recent entertainment given at the High school building. The ladies auxiliary, who are giving a fair in Boutcher and Margerum's hall, this Friday and Saturday, have a large lot of fancy articles, etc., which they have collected from generous donors.

BURRELL ACQUITTED

Seriously Charged by His 15-Year-old Neice—Jury Let Him Off.

John Burrell, of Willow Grove, was acquitted before Judge Weand at Norristown court this week, of a serious charge preferred by Hattie Goings, who was 15 years old when the alleged offense took place.

The young prosecutrix resides in Camden and is a relative of the defendant. She was visiting at his home last summer for three days when the offense is alleged to have been committed.

The defendant denied the charges and witnesses testified as to his good character. He said he simply slapped her with his hands.

It isn't enough to look on the bright side. Better have a look on both sides.

OLD YORK ROAD NEEDS STATE AID

Great Market Highway for Bucks County Farmers is in Deplorable Condition—Turnpike Was Abandoned Six Years Ago—Some Facts About the Old Roadway Cost.

A strong effort is being made by residents of Bucks county, whose property is in and near the Old York road, to have that highway macadamized by the State. All such residents should join in the movement, which should appeal especially to citizens of Hartsville and Jamison, as well as to Warminster, Warwick and Buckingham farmers.

The Old York road is one of the principal market avenues for central Bucks county farmers in reaching their Philadelphia customers. From Street road to Centerville it has been for several years an abandoned turnpike and time and is now in wretched traveling condition for a good part of the distance, about eight miles.

The road has been surveyed four times by the State. Five men were in the engineering corps during three of the surveys, the last survey was made by seven engineers. Stakes have been driven every few feet along its entire length. More than once the State highway department has advertised for bids for the construction for this piece of road, but the matter never got beyond that point. It is probably safe to say that the State has spent as much in surveying the road as it originally cost the old turnpike company to build it.

It was built during the winter of 1856 and 57, of hand broken stone, placed 16 feet wide and 14 inches deep. The cost was $3035 per mile, which paid for all culverts and small bridges. At the time the turnpike built the road it was widened from 30 to 45 feet and the above price included also the grading down of banks for the additional width. The road was condemned in 1905, and has since been neglected until it is in poorer condition than the average township dirt road.

If it is rebuilt under State specifications the cost will be from two to four times what the original road cost to build. Times have changed.

A poultry house 96 feet long and 10 feet wide is being built at the Woman's Horticultural School farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kneezel and daughter spent the Thanksgiving holidays with Mrs. Kneezel's parents.

An entertainment will be given in the basement of the church this Saturday evening by a company of young men from Flourtown.

William DePrefontaine has purchased a store and dwelling in the Tioga section of the city, and will remove there later in the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Frankenfeld and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Riley and family, of Ambler, spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Houpt.

Raymond Theel has prepared plans for the erection of a bungalow on the Kaiser place. The building, which will be one story, 40 by 15 feet, will be used as a studio and will have a skylight.

The Upper Dublin township road supervisors met Monday evening at Jarrettown and organized with the election of George H. Kerns president and Daniel Stout, secretary, Elwood Paul being the remaining member. Wm. J. Devine was re-elected treasurer. John Donat and William M. Taylor were re-elected road masters, and the price of 22½ cents per hour was set as the wages for road foreman, and $1.75 per day for laboring men.

The new school board of Upper Dublin met at Jarrettown on Monday night and organized for the new year by electing Charles Roberts president; Allen G. Cressman, vice president; W. C. Aichele, secretary, and G. B. Benners, treasurer. Joseph T. Foulke, Esq., was elected solicitor and Robert H. Kepler, truant officer. Parents' meetings will be held this spring at Fort Washington and Jarrettown. The board adjourned to meet at Jarrettown on January 3.

PLEAD GUILTY TO KILLING HIS WIFE

William J. Gordon Admitted in Court That He Attacked Woman With Axe—Crime That Stirred Willow Grove Last Summer—Second Degree Murder Plea Saves His Neck—Will be Sentenced This Saturday.

When the case of William J. Gordon, accused of the murder of his wife at Willow Grove on July 15 last, was called for trial on Wednesday at Norristown, Assistant District Attorney McAvoy stated to Judge Weand that Gordon had agreed to plead guilty of murder in the second degree. He will be sentenced on Saturday.

After Gordon had told the Court that was his plea, Police Chief Lever of Abington testified that he found Gordon and wife unconscious and bleeding from various cuts when he arrived at the home of Moore Krier, in Willow Grove, where the crime occurred. He removed both to the Jewish Hospital, where Mrs. Gordon died July 30.

According to Chief Lever Mrs. Gordon had five cuts on her head and four more on her arms and hands. The instrument used was doubtless an axe which was found lying beside Gordon.

Two of the fingers on Gordon's right hand were cut off. He had two fractures on his head and a scratch on his neck from ear to ear, which was apparently made with a knife.

On July 28 Gordon made a statement to Lever in which he declared that he had come up from Dacosta, N. J., during the afternoon and that he had taken his children out for a walk. After an argument, he became enraged and picked up the first thing he could lay his hands on, which happened to be an axe, and struck her with it, and from then on he did not know anything.

Gordon corroborated this statement from the witness stand. He said he did not know how his skull came to be fractured or how his throat was cut as if by a knife, which was found near a pool of blood in the dining-room. Gordon told of domestic trouble for two years and said another woman persuaded his wife that she was too young to tie herself down to the quiet and loneliness of a little Jersey town while her husband was away as a boat captain.

Gordon said he was fond of his wife and lost his head when she taunted him concerning other men. Their two children of four and six years are in charge of the Juvenile Court of Montgomery county.

MRS. SMITH IS FREED.

The grand jury at Norristown ignored the bill charging Mrs. Amanda Smith, of Fort Washington, with manslaughter and put the costs on the county. Mrs. Smith and her niece, Mrs. Mary Austin, were driving in an automobile a few weeks ago when an accident happened to the machine and Mrs. Austin was thrown out and so badly injured that she died in Philadelphia shortly afterward. The Philadelphia coroner believed that there had been carelessness on the part of Mrs. Smith in operating the car and referred the case to the Montgomery county grand jury.

HORSE COMPANY MEETING.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Washington Horse Company was held at Weldon hotel, on Thursday. J. Milton Brooke was elected president; Lewis Whitcomb, secretary; and Frank Houpt, treasurer.

A resolution of respect was adopted for the former president, Hutchinson Smith, who died at his home in Jenkintown, since the last annual meeting.

HOME FOR POOR

$621,000 Contract Let for New Buildings.

The buildings for the Home for the Philadelphia poor, to be erected at Holmesburg on a tract immediately adjoining the House of Correction by the Wayne Contracting Company under a contract for $621,000 let by Director Neff, will consist of a series of six or seven structures all fronting the Delaware River.

Philadelphia stone is to be the material for the outer walls of the building, which, designed by Philip H. Johnson, will be of more than customary architectural beauty for such an institution. They will include three large ward buildings, each to accommodate about 200 inmates, a dormitory for the blind, a large auditorium for the amusement of the patients, a great central dining room connected with the other buildings by covered passageways, kitchens, laundry, refrigerating plant and buildings for attendants with all modern conveniences throughout every part of the new institution.

In place of erecting a separate power plant for the heating and electric lighting of the buildings it is planned to remodel and enlarge the present power plant of the House of Correction so that such provision may more economically serve both institutions. The Wayne Company's contract calls for completion of the work in fourteen months. Eventually it is contemplated to increase the capacity of the Home for the Indigent by the addition of other buildings on the site so that it may provide for upward of 1000 inmates.

Director Neff also opened bids for the erection of four cottages that will be the nucleus of the home for feeble-minded women and children at Torresdale.

The department has $250,000 available for these buildings, and the State has appropriated $200,000, which will be available June 1, 1912. The bid of Sax and Abbott is low upon each cottage, the total being $232,872 which comes within the amount available. The department will advertise for the construction of an auditorium and other cottages when additional money becomes available.

BIG MT. AIRY TRACT SOLD.

A tract with a frontage of 436 feet on Lincoln Drive between Mt. Pleasant avenue and Allen's lane and extending to Allen's lane station has been sold by Sydney L. Wright to H. Edgar Barnes for $45,000. The land is a portion of a 20-acre tract assessed for $60,000. High class houses will be built.

The Christmas Dinner.

In spite of the fact that the word dyspepsia means literally bad cook, it will not be fair for many to lay the blame on the cook if they begin the Christmas Dinner with little appetite and end it with distress or nausea. It may not be fair for any to do that—let us hope so for the sake of the cook. The disease dyspepsia indicates a bad stomach, that is a weak stomach, rather than a bad cook, and for a weak stomach there is nothing else equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. It gives the stomach vigor and tone, cures dyspepsia, creates appetite, and makes eating the pleasure it should be.

Philadelphia Theatres.

SOTHERN AND MARLOWE IN SHAKESPEAREAN REPERTOIRE.

The second and last week of the Sothern and Marlowe engagement at the Lyric Theatre in Philadelphia will begin next Monday, December 11th. Usual matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. The annual engagement of these eminent stars has called forth audiences of enormous proportions, the subscription sale being the largest ever known in the Quaker City. The Shakespearean plays presented were seven in number, all of which will be repeated next week. They include "Romeo and Juliet," "As You Like It," "Merchant of Venice," "Twelfth Night," "Hamlet," "Macbeth," and "Taming of the Shrew." Each and every play is staged and costumed magnificently, and the support accorded the stars has been generally commended for its excellence. The interest shown in the drama of the great bard Shakespeare, is evidenced by the call at the public libraries for the various plays to be presented at the Lyric Theatre. The stories written by Charles and Mary Lamb have been in great demand also. Owing to the elaborate nature of the productions the evening performances will start at eight o'clock sharp, and the matinee performance at two o'clock sharp. The last performances will occur on Saturday afternoon and evening, December 16th, when "Taming of the Shrew" will be presented at both entertainments.

"JACINTA" AT THE ADELPHI.

The very last word in opera comique, namely "Jacinta" will be presented at the Adelphi Theatre, Philadelphia, for a limited engagement, opening at that house on Monday night, December 11th. Usual matinees on Thursday and Saturday. This delightful entertainment has been the reigning sensation of Continental Europe for the past two years and is at present being performed in no less than seven different cities over there. John Cort, the well-known New York and Pacific Coast theatrical manager, stands sponsor for "Jacinta," and is sending it to Philadelphia with an irreprochable cast, a chorus of sixty voices and an augmented orchestra of thirty musicians. In the big company will be found such well known singers and comedians as Anna Bussert, Carrie Reynolds, Forrest Huff, Harry Leone, Will Phillips, Reine Lazar, Dick Temple, Fay Balnter and a dozen lesser lights. The score of "Jacinta" is by Heinrich Berte, and the German libretto is by Schneitzer and Von Gatti. The American version was prepared by John L. Shine. The story told concerns one of those perennial revolutions which occur in every South American republic. The presidente has been re-elected so often that he tires of the job and as his friends and admirers will not permit him to retire, he secretly incites a revoluton to depose himself, and plots and plans as assiduously as though he were trying to overthrow a hated rival. His loyal friends defeat his endeavors, however, and in the end he finds himself re-elected, this time for life. It is said that in point of gorgeousness of scenery and costumes, "Jacinta" rivals anything of the kind ever exhibited on the Philadelphia stage.

IDENTIFIES RING IN COURT

Man Says Rare Jewel Purchased in Europe Was Stolen From Him.

An antique ring of great value which Joseph McGinley, Tenth and Spring streets, Philadelphia, attempted to pawn at a Market street loan office was identified in the City Hall police court by Cornelius D. Ehret, 6911 Clearview street, Mt. Airy, as part of the proceeds of a robbery of his home last week.

Ehret said he had picked the ring up in an antique shop during his travels in Europe, and that he did not believe its duplicate existed in Philadelphia. The ring was the only piece of the loot which the police have so far recovered. McGinley was remanded for a further hearing because the detectives said they expected to connect him with other suburban robberies by second-story thieves.

May Blake, who was arrested with McGinley, was unable to appear for a hearing owing to a collapse, due to the use of drugs. She is under police guard in the Philadelphia Hospital.

Jewelry valued at nearly $500 was stolen from the home of Mr. Ehret.

Sinking Spells Every Few Days

"At the time I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy I was having sinking spells every few days. My hands and feet would get cold; I could scarcely breathe, and could feel myself gradually sinking away until I would be unconscious. Those about me could not tell there was life in me. After these spells I would be very weak and nervous, sleepless and without appetite; had neuralgia in my head and heart. After taking the remedy a short time all this disappeared and in a few weeks all the heart trouble was gone." MRS. LIZZIE PAINTER 803½ 3d Ave. Evansville, Ind.

For twenty years we have been constantly receiving just such letters as these. There is scarcely a locality in the United States where there is not some one who can testify to the merits of this remarkably successful Heart Remedy.

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy is sold by all druggists. If the first bottle fails to benefit, your druggist will return your money.

ADVENTURES of the WORLD'S GREAT DETECTIVES

By George Barton

The Great Bullion Robbery

An Episode in the Life of Inspector Sweeney of Scotland Yard.

COPYRIGHT 1911 BY W.G.CHAPMAN.

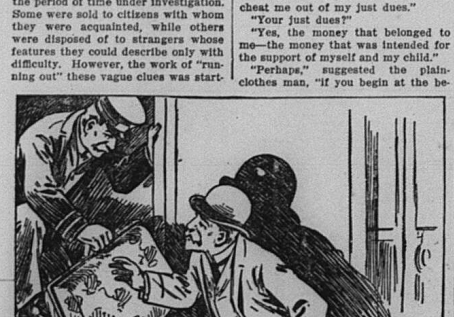

ONE September morning several decades ago, when the express officials lifted out the bullion which had been brought to Boulogne by way of the Southeastern railway, they noticed that the bags were not quite as heavy as usual. They were opened and found to contain nothing but shot. Thus, hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of gold had mysteriously disappeared in the journey between London and Boulogne.

The amazing part of it was that almost superhuman means had been taken to protect the precious dust. The gold was sent in the guards' van, packed in iron boxes, each of which was deposited in a safe with a Chubb lock. The safes each had two locks, and naturally there was a separate key for each one. These keys were in triplicate and were in the possession of the trusted officers of the company. One set was kept by the traffic superintendent in London, another by the head of the Folkstone railway office, and the third by the captain of the Folkstone-Boulogne boat.

Each of these men was beyond suspicion. They were all willing to swear that the bags had been sealed in the usual form, duly fastened and locked. How had the shot been substituted for the gold? And where? No one could answer these questions. It seemed like black magic.

James Sweeney of Scotland Yard was put on the case, and associated with him were a number of the best detectives in England. The investigators first visited the railway office at Folkstone and made a careful examination of the premises. That brought no results. After that there was a second and more careful scrutiny of the railway car. One of the finds here was an old carpet bag.

That was a beginning. The Scotland Yard men took the bag and began one of those systematic searches in which they are excelled only by the secret police of Paris. Many shopkeepers had sold many bags within the period of time under investigation. Some were sold to citizens with whom they were acquainted, while others were disposed of to strangers whose features they could describe only with difficulty. However, the work of "running out" these vague clues was started and carried to a conclusion. It involved weeks of patient labor.

AT REDHILL TESTER WAS HANDED A PORTION OF THE GOLD.

In the meantime it became increasingly evident that the robbery was the work of skilled professionals. Little items of information picked up here and there proved that the scheme had been carried out by a gang of thieves. Finally, enough was learned to convince the detectives that the thieves had secured a wax impression of a set of the real keys, which enabled the thieves to manufacture a set of false ones. But even with this, it was necessary to secure the assistance of someone employed by the railway company.

At this stage of the game one of the carpet bags was traced to a man named Peter Agar. That, in itself, sounds commonplace. But the importance of it becomes evident when it is stated that the portrait of Mr. Agar occupied a place of honor in the Rogues' gallery at Scotland Yard. Copies of the picture were made and sent all along the line. The guards and the ticket collectors immediately recognized it as that of one of the men who had traveled in the train on the day the gold had disappeared.

Two things could be done. One was to arrest Agar at once and depend upon getting his assistance in bringing his pals to justice. The other was to shadow him in the hope of securing additional evidence that would result in recovering some of the gold and rounding up the gang. The second course was agreed upon. So a close espionage was kept upon the skilful and gentlemanly Mr. Agar with the intention of ultimately taking him into custody.

Just as the police were ready to pounce down upon the fellow, he upset all of their plans. He committed a fresh crime. And it was of a character that could not be ignored. He was caught uttering forged checks, and in wholesale quantities. An army of shop-keepers went after him and he was arrested, tried, convicted and sentenced to transportation for life. The detectives who had been after him for the great bullion robbery tried to get him to make a confession of that affair, but he only smiled and remarked that he had nothing to say for publication. They even tried, in a mild sort of way, the kind of persuasion that we call the third degree, but it was of no use. Agar shut up like a clam, merely saying that he was ready to take his punishment for the forged checks. He was sent away, and with him the only clue relating to the theft of the gold dust.

The affair was about to be cast into the limbo of unsolved mysteries when a note was received at the office of Captain Fraser from a woman who gave the name of Mrs. Kay. She said that if the police would call at her home she would give them some information that would interest them exceedingly.

And she did.

It was the old story of revenge—and a woman's revenge at that. The officer who called on Mrs. Kay expected to hear of some petty offense, but instead of that she poured into his amazed ears the complete story of the great bullion robbery.

"Why do you tell this?" asked the officer.

"Because John Pierce has tried to cheat me out of my just dues."

"Your just dues?"

"Yes, the money that belonged to me—the money that was intended for the support of myself and my child."

"Perhaps," suggested the plain-clothes man, "if you begin at the beginning we may come to a better understanding."

"Very well," was the response, "I can start by saying that the plan for the robbery was conceived by John Pierce."

It seems that Agar and Mrs. Kay lived together as husband and wife and that he had given her all of the details of the robbery. Pierce, at the time, was a clerk in a bucket shop. He had been concerned in several shady transactions and the possibilities of the gold train appealed to him very strongly. But it was too big a job for him to undertake alone. So he sought the professional advice and assistance of Agar. That gentleman seized the suggestion with avidity.

The first step necessary was to win over one of the employes of the company. So they approached one of the guards named Burgess, who was usually in charge of the trains carrying the gold. He fell in with the scheme and explained the methods of transportation.

As the gold was carried in the guard's van it was plain that the robbery would be easy when Burgess was on guard. The question was how to open the safes. The answer to that was plain enough—to get false keys in place of the real ones. Agar told his pal that he would have to get a wax impression of the real keys in order to make the duplicates.

"That's too bad," was the response; "the keys are kept in the office of the company."

"Then we'll have to get an accomplice in the office," was the cool retort.

And so the conspiracy, which had been deep enough, now became deeper. Another employe of the company succumbed to temptation. His name was Tester and he was in a position to lay his hands on the keys of the safes.

This fellow was employed in the Traffic department at London Bridge. He entered into the scheme with avidity. He reported to his pals that there were times when the safes were sent to Chubbs for repairs, and that, on these occasions, one of the keys was sent with the safes. Such an occasion arose very soon, and then Tester cleverly managed to abstract one of the keys; but there was still an impediment to the complete success of the conspiracy. As each of the safes had two locks, and the key to but one was sent to Chubbs, it was the second key that baffled Tester's best and worst efforts.

But what they failed to get by shrewdness came singularly enough by chance. One of the second keys was always kept in the Folkstone office hanging in a little closet. Pierce ascertained this fact, and he hung about the office in the hope of getting his clutch on it. His opportunity came. One morning the cupboard was empty, and Pierce, stepping into the office, which was vacant, grabbed the key and passed it to Agar, who had a handful of warm wax. He immediately took the impression of the key, returned it to Pierce, who put it back in its place, and the two of them left the office together without being detected.

The next thing to learn was when the largest consignment of bullion would be dispatched. Tester obtained this information. In the meantime the conspirators arranged their part of the scheme. Carpet bags were purchased and filled with shot which was intended to replace exactly the amount of gold taken from the bags. Agar more than once traveled up and down the line for the purpose of testing the false keys that he had manufactured with Pierce's assistance. Burgess admitted them to the guard's van, where they fitted and filed the keys until both worked easily in the lock of the safe.

Finally the great night of the enterprise arrived. The conspirators purchased tickets on the Southeastern train, boarded it and handed their bags, filled with shot, to the porters, who placed them in the guard's van. As the train was starting, Agar managed to get into the van with Burgess, while Pierce secured a seat in the first-class carriage. The industrious Agar began work at once. He opened the safe, secured the bullion bags, removed the gold, substituted the shot from the carpet bag, refastened and resealed the bullion bags and replaced them in the safe. The trick was partially turned. At Redhill Tester met the train and was handed a portion of the gold. The two other safes were robbed in the same manner as the first. When the train reached Folkstone the unsuspecting officials removed the safes, which were filled with shot, and not gold. The rascals went on to Dover, having previously obtained tickets to Ostend. Later on they returned to London unobserved, and little by little disposed of the stolen gold.

The burglary, as already stated, was first discovered at Boulogne. Mrs. Kay said that when Agar was sentenced to transportation for life and knew that he could not escape, he handed to Pierce forty-five thousand dollars which he requested to be settled on Mrs. Kay for the support of herself and her child. Pierce paid her a few small sums and then calmly confiscated the remainder of this fortune. She came to the police in great rage and disclosed the story of the robbery as it has been here related.

Agar, who was in Newgate, heard how Pierce had mistreated Mrs. Kay and he eagerly turned state's evidence. As a consequence of this, Pierce, Burgess, Tester and several others were arrested, convicted and sentenced to life terms in prison. The company only recovered a very small portion of the stolen money.

This true story points a moral that will not be overlooked by the discriminating reader. It is that crime, even viewed from a sordid, worldly standpoint, does not pay. Pierce and Agar had already spent many years in jail and their final crime meant that the remainder of their existence should be lived out behind prison bars. Every one associated with the robbery of the Southeastern railway suffered life-long scars—scars that might have healed, but that nevertheless left their mark on the victim.

Students of criminology are unanimous in the belief that crime is the least profitable of all human undertakings. "Easy money" seems to carry its own punishment. Even though the crook makes what he calls a "get away," he suffers constantly from the fear of detection. That comes sooner or later and then comes the misery of arrest and the haunting fear that mother or wife may be in want or suffering. Attempts to care for them with tainted money usually ends as did the Pierce-Agar compact. Honesty, therefore, is not only the best, but the most comfortable policy.

AGAR OPENED THE SAFE AND SECURED THE BULLION BAGS.

PRETTY POLLY PAPERS

Dear Girls: Isn't it heavenly weather? Too beautifully, light-heartedly June to ever be anything else, it would seem. We know better, but we don't feel so, and sometimes "feels" are better than "thinks." I wonder how many girls know the secret of keeping bureau drawers in order? It is simply this: Have a box for everything and everything in its box. The covers of the boxes may be discarded or not, just as you like, but ribbons folded in a box do not overlap glove territory, and belts do not have to put up a sign "no handkerchiefs allowed on this property." Two long boxes (corset boxes, perhaps) are good for gloves and belts, and another box for purses and other trifles and all the dear feminine "nothings," that are "everything" really, for we couldn't live without them!

A girl's club I know of had promised to make a large number of paper roses of different colors to decorate a church fair booth. This seemed like a big undertaking, but one of the girls had a brilliant inspiration and made the task into a pleasure for all concerned. She invited the club members to her house for a "Progressive Rose Party." One table had a red cloth, one a pink cloth, one a yellow cover and one was white. Thus the tables were designated where flowers of a like hue were to be made. The white rose table was the head table. When a bell rang after a certain time had elapsed, the two at the red table who had made the most red roses progressed to the pink table, and so on. Tally cards cut in the shape of a white rose were used, with small pink rose pasters. When the work was done the goodies were served in pink and white cases on pink and white dishes, and didn't those pink and white maidens have an appetite? The best worker received as a reward a little silver rose pin—and it won't fade unless she loses it!

Now that hats are such an expensive part of one's wardrobe, one girl has told me her way, and really she is too clever for words. She makes one hat do for several occasions. She has a medium-sized black straw hat and a large white hat with "adjustable trimmings." Wreaths of flowers have firm inner bands sewed to them with little patent "snaps" (used to fasten dresses) on these, the under parts of the snap being sewed to the hat itself. A long plume offers the same possibility, while bows of several kinds and different shapes and hues can do duty when required. Presto! Hats trimmed while you wait. In the same way in winter her foundation hat may be a turban of black velvet with a black velvet crown and bow on one side. This whole crown can be doubled to fasten over the buckram crown which can be substituted when one wears gray furs for an afternoon of calling; also a violet silk crown with knots of artificial violets and leaves peeping from the folds, which can be worn to a reception with a lavender dress. Let's learn to be adaptable these days, when purses won't stretch.

You can make fascinating curtains and bedspreads for your rooms, girls, by using the white crepe material often used for shirt waists, which requires no ironing. A pretty white fringe that is washable can be stitched along the edges of both curtains and spreads.

Here's a beautiful way to save time in placing ribbons in under garments before and after laundering. Have some flat white tape (linen) the width of one's ribbon and of equal length. Tie one end of the ribbon to a piece of tape and pull out the ribbon, drawing the tape into its place. Untie the ribbon and send the garment to the laundry with the tape "where the ribbon ought to be." After the garment is washed and ironed, reverse the process—tie the ribbon to the tape's end once more, pull on the tape and draw the ribbon back into place. Just as easy as A. B. C. That stands for Any—Body—Can!

At a girls' luncheon where many tapers were used this ingenious substitute for candlesticks was used: Potatoes of uniform size were selected, and a hole cut in the center of each to admit the candle. Artificial paper daffodils were then pinned over the entire surface of the rest of the potato, except on the under side, making a perfect flower ball of each one. The effect could be varied by using any preferred flower, for of course every girl has her favorite posy!

Here's an idea for the good, studious girl: Use a card system for chance opportunities for studying. On square cards which will fit into your card case, write lists which you wish to memorize, poems which must be learned for college exams, verbs which must be declined, etc. You can help your mother iron, and one of the cards can be laid by the froning stand, where your eyes can rest upon it while working. As the trolley car speeds to and fro on your way to a friend's house or to the city, you can conquer the contents of one or more of your cards, and many an odd minute can be saved, and while other girls have to study you will be that much ahead.

Girls with straight hair! Attention! Wash the hair frequently with lukewarm water and a good pure soap, rinsing a number of times, and in one of the rinsing waters, add a little borax. Comb out the hair, fluff it about the face loosely, forming a pompadour, and insert a cheap round comb to hold it thus while drying. Make a second puff of hair back of the first and insert a second round comb (such as children used to wear. When the hair is dried it will have a pretty wave that looks more natural than that produced by most hair-curling devices.

Now that initials on one's note paper are no longer the "smartest thing," the girl who likes her possessions stamped with an individual touch is rather at a loss. One clever girl has solved the problem by having a personal emblem on everything she owns, where it is possible to do so. Her handkerchiefs, her note paper, her jabots, her lingerie, all bear one or more dainty little butterflies. Her umbrella's top, her seal for personal letters, her shopping bag, and in fact every possession that can be marked, all bear the same fairy-like emblem. Is it any wonder that her friends will learn to think of her as a sweet, flitting, elusive personality?

To come down to earth and something to eat, do you know how to make such a good cake that is dirt cheap and is of that color, too? (But pardon me, goodly chocolate cake, for such you are.) Only one egg, frosting and all, and everyone likes it, men as well as women.

Into a little saucepan put two tablespoonfuls of cocoa, blend with a bit of hot water, add one-half cup of milk and cook over the stove with the yolk of one egg. When thick like custard, add one cup of sugar and a teaspoonful of butter until melted. Take from the stove, add one more half cupful of milk in which is dissolved a level teaspoonful of soda, add gradually one and one-half cups of flour and lastly a teaspoonful of vanilla. Bake in one loaf or in small cakes as desired. With the white of the egg make either plain or boiled frosting.

Do some of you girls have trouble making good boiled frosting? Here's a simple trick. Put one cup of sugar with a wee bit of water and boil. Beat the egg white in a bowl, slightly, then add two tablespoonfuls of the partially cooked syrup and continue to beat the egg white until firm and stiff. Boil the remainder of the sirup until it will "ball" when tested in cold water, pour while melting hot onto the egg white, beating constantly until thick. This will never fail to harden and yet is soft and delicious "beneath the surface."

Oh, dear!—it's "good-by time" again. I'll put the rest of the ideas I was going to tell you about back in their bandbox.

Yours,
PRETTY POLLY.

Sealed Proposals

PROPOSALS FOR COLLECTION OF ASHES AND GARBAGE.

Office of Commissioners of Abington Township, Abington, Pa.

The Board of Commissioners o Abington Township invite proposals or bids, to be received and opened by them at their meeting to be held December 21st, 1911 at 8 p. m. for the removal of Ashes and garbage from every dwelling house within said township for the year 1912. Garbage to be collected from the rear of the dwelling house or from such place adjacent thereto as may be convenient for the collector. To be removed three times in each and every week during the months of April, May, June, July, August, September, October and November, and twice each week during the months of December, January, February and March, and must be transported through the township in water-tight wagons or vehicles, and all of the same must be removed from the township, and more than a quarter of a mile beyond the limits.

Ashes to be collected once each week from receptacles to be placed in the rear of the house or such place adjacent thereto as may be convenient for the collector.

They reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

Householders will have the ashes placed in receptacles, not exceeding 100 pounds each, and so they can be conveniently handled. Not more than 400 pounds will be taken from one house in any one week. Paper and tin cans must not be mixed with the ashes. Paper must be tied in packages and tin cans kept separately.

Householders will have the garbage placed in suitable receptacles. Do not place tin cans or broken glass in the garbage, but put them in separate receptacles. These receptacles must be placed so as they can be conveniently gathered.

NICHOLAS BAGGS,
1996-98 Town Clerk.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

HOUSEHOLD HINTS AND DRESS TOPICS

Dear Spirit Readers:

Everywhere one goes, the ladies are found busily embroidering and knitting and such beautiful things are the outcome. Crosstitch is so popular for almost everything, waists, neck fixtures, belts for women's wear, and borders on towels, bureau and other covers, luncheon sets, etc. Instructions in this old time needle work can be had in the Needle-work Department of any of our large Philadelphia stores. Below you will find suggestions for Christmas gifts.

If in doubt what to make for your married friend, consider a set of cases for her table mats. They are new, good-looking and useful.

Cut four pieces of cardboard for each case. The largest should be for dinner plate doilies, the second case for lunch plate doilies and the third for bread and butter plate mats.

The easiest way to get these shapes is to turn the three sizes of plates upside down on the cardboard and trace them with a soft pencil. Cut about a quarter of an inch outside this line, as the cases should be larger than the doilies.

When the cardboard is cut, cover the outside of each piece with cotton batting. On top put white silk on two of the pieces and flowered cretonne on the other two. Make the covering smooth, turning the edges over on wrong side. They can be pasted as one covers a photograph frame or may be sewed in stitches.

Overcast the white and cretonne sections together, using tiny stitches. When the pieces are finished put under heavy weights to keep from warping.

The case is finished by stitching ribbon to the lower half, leaving long enough ends to tie around the upper piece and end in a full bow in the centre.

This makes an artistic case, but the average housekeeper does not care to bother with ribbon in her linen drawer. More utilitarian is it to fasten the two sections at one edge with an inch of silk elastic left slack and on the opposite edge make a loop of elastic on one-half and sew a button with shank to the other half. This stretches easily as more doilies are added.

Instead of the overcast edge the halves of each case may be bound with silk tape, or a narrow galloon may be blind stitched on the cretonne side. As the cases are round choose a loosely woven braid or bias binding, as it will pucker in sewing otherwise.

Instead of cretonne coverings for the cardboard, a colored linen or heavy corded silk can be used for the outside of each section. This should have in the centre of the top piece a monogram embroidered in satin stitch and seeding.

Unless one draws or can enlarge and reduce patterns, it is wiser to have the monograms designed, as they must necessarily be a different size for each case, though of same style.

An effective and serviceable case is made of butter colored linen bound in blue or pink braid and worked with a monogram to match. If, instead of cardboard, these linen cases are made up over thin white wood such as is used for cut-up puzzles, they may be kept clean easily by scrubbing with a brush and soapsuds.

Another covering is of heavy canvas with a cross-stitch border in several tones of old blue or Chinese red around the edge. Three small initials in cross stitch to match are put in the centre. All embroidery or cross stitching must be done before the case is made up. Be careful to have border stamped so it comes just to edge, when it is adjusted to cardboard.

This set may be improved by making a centrepiece roll to match the doily cases. These rolls in canvas with cross-stitch border around two sides and across one end are newer than cretonne ones. Put initials below the bound end so they are on top when the case is rolled. The width should be 30 inches at least, or as wide as material permits, and about a yard and a quarter long. Tie ribbon or white silk braid to one end.

CONVENIENT THEATRE BAG.

The girl who must go to theatre or opera in the street cars often is in a panic as to the condition of her hair when her hat is removed. One suburbanite has a peaceful mind since she has presented with an opera bag with a mirror bottom.

Such a bag is easily made. The bottom is oval, an inch or two larger than the usual opera glass case. Cut it from two pieces of silk. One side covered with the lining silk, the other with a small piece of mirror securely pasted to it, the edges covered with galloon.

The top of the bag may be of velvet, brocade or the fashionable gold tissue over white satin. It is overcast to the bottom and finished at top with a casing through which is run a silk cord or ribbon.

On the inside of bag should be a small pocket on one side to hold a bit of chamois and a tiny box of powder or one of the books of powder sheets.

THE DOUBLE SIDE FRILL.

The girl who intends to make side frills for Christmas gifts should consider the double ones. They are a trifle newer and smarter than the single ones and not much harder to make.

The under frill is cut an inch wider than the upper one when finished, and both are sewed into one band.

A fine, dainty boudoir cap to be worn with a rose-colored suit could be made from the soft new curtain material embroidered in tiny rosebuds or other small flowers in colors on a barred or striped net background. The material is so decorative that little trimming is needed. The edge may be worked with a scallop to match the roses, or the same tone as the cloth, or it can have a narrow picot edge of handwork in white or colored mercerized cotton.

CROCHETING.

So much crocheting is done in linen thread as well as cotton, and any one who can do this work well, can find endless things to make to please their friends.

Fine crochetting is done in edgings and insertions for table furnishings, doilies and scarfs. Centre pieces and whole table covers, but these take time when done in fine thread. Old time macrema thread is used nowadays to make dress trimmings, work bags and theatre bags, when lined. Also strips are made for curtains, bed spreads, etc. It is all easily done, and is pleasant pastime besides giving a great happiness to the fortunate friend.

CROCHETED CHENILLE STOLE.

One of the novelties of the season is the crocheted silk chenille stole. It is warm, as well as pretty, and will be found a satisfactory substitute for the fur neck-piece which, owing to the high price of furs this winter, is a luxury beyond the means of many women.

Material—Columbia silk chenille; six skeins; one wood or amber crochet hook, No. 11.

Instructions: Chain 2. Skip the chain next to the needle and in the other insert the hook, draw the chenille through, chenille over and through the two loops on needle, thus forming one single crochet stitch (1 S. C.)

Second row. Turn chain, 2, skip first chain, 1 S C in the next chain, chain 1, 1 S C in chain of preceding row.

Third row—Turn chain, 2, skip chain, next to needle, 1 S C in next chain, * chain 1, 1 S C in next chain and repeat from * ending the row with 1 S C in last chain. Repeat third row until there are eight chains, and eight S C across the row.

Next row chain,1, 1 S C in first chain of preceding row, then finish the row as usual, thus making a plain row without increasing.

Next row. Turn 1, 1 S C in first chain, chain, 1, 1 S C in next chain, repeat from * across the row. Make three more rows in the same manner, ending each with an S C taken in the last S C instead of in the last chain of the preceding row.

Care should be taken to keep the edge smooth and not drawn too tightly. There should now be four chains, and 4 S C in the row. Work on this width, beginning each row with chain 1 and ending with S C until the centre of stole measures about 21 inches. Then make second end, following directions for first and beginning with the 3d row, widening until there are eight chains and eight S C in the row. Then a plain row as directed; afterwards narrowing on every row, as directed, until one stitch remains. Fasten off.

Make a fringe across the pointed ends eight chains in each loop and eight loops in all, worked loosely. Make two ornaments for fastening at neck as follows:

Chain 3 and join in a ring. In the ring work a round of 7 S C, then a round increasing by putting 2 S C in the fourth and last spaces. Make three loops on ornaments as those across the ends were made.

Chenille may be had in white, pink, blue, dark blue, navy, scarlet, maroon, nile, myrtle, purple, grey, steel, light and dark brown, black, copenhagen and chinchilla.

FOR THE INVALID.

When planning your holiday gifts don't forget the invalids. Make a bag of dainty flowered silk or cretonne, running inch wide satin ribbon in the top for a draw string and lining it with delicately scented silk. Have the draw strings very long so it can be hung on the bedpost in easy reach of the invalid's hand, without the necessity of her raising herself in bed. In the bag is a small paper pad, pencil, handkerchief and anything she may need that otherwise would have to be handed to her by an attendant. Sometimes a little surprise can be slipped in the bag that will give much happiness and help to pass the weary hours of suffering.

TABLE RUNNERS.

Instead of plate doilies, Eastern hostesses are adopting the fashion of the table runners of the California women. White damask toweling with blue figures or blue and white is bought in a roll of ten yards. Each roll is cut into five strips and the ends hemstitched, with initials facing the hem at each end. The runners cross one another on the table, and are arranged so each guest has an end under the plate cup, and bread and butter plate. This toweling can be bought at any Japanese importer's, and is inexpensive. Sometimes an extra roll is used and square napkins to match the runners are hemstitched and embroidered. This makes as unusual luncheon outfit.

PAPER BAG COOKERY.

I find this new art in housekeeping is taking quite a hold on the general public, and I like it, but I think it takes experience, patience and some disappointments before it becomes a mastered art. Most cooks feel they have not the time to bother with it, but will use the oldtime methods, feeling the results good enough. But I do find when the meat is properly cooked in a bag it is certainly delicious.

Here is a way of using up Monday's cold dinner meat that hearty children will relish, and even the man of the house will not disdain. It fits in with washday, which cooks for its own the whole top of the stove. Cut the meat in slices, neither too thick nor too thin, and as broad as possible, butter them, sprinkle them well with salted flour and a very little pepper. Lay in a well greased bag, side by side, then place upon each a tomato, peeled, hollowed out, dusted inside with sugar, salt and pepper, then stuffed. Boiled rice is a good stuffing, so is cooked macaroni or spaghetti cut small. Bread crumbs fried brown are likewise tasty. Season the stuffing well and mix through it all the snippets and trimmings of the meat. Use either butter, bacon or cold boiled pork, well minced, to enrich the stuffing. Scatter between the tomatoes the scoopings from their insides. Place in bag, seal it, and cook in a hot oven about twelve minutes. A little minced onion in the stuffing makes it more piquant, but it needs to be used sparingly.

Another way, even easier, is to slice, season and butter the meat, then cover half the slices thickly with fried crumbs, moistened with tomota catsup, lay on another slice, and cook inside a bag about seven minutes. Boiled rice or cold macaroni can be used in place of the crumbs, and left-over gravy instead of the catsup. In that case a zest of onion juice helps—a few drops on each slice before covering.

QUICK POTATOES—Take a large white potato for each person to be fed. Peel, slice thin, drop in cold water for five minutes, then drain, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and pack compactly in a well greased bag, adding a tablespoonful of stock or milk and water, for each two potatoes. Seal and cook twenty minutes. Boiled potatoes can be used, and take only half as long.

BAKED APPLES—Wash well, but do not peel, cut out specks and bruises, core, fill the bottom of the core space with a lump of butter, over which pile sugar, and add a bit of cinnamon. A clove stuck in the side may take the place of the cinnamon. Seal inside a well greased bag and bake eighteen to twenty minutes in a fairly hot oven. Serve with sugar and cream or a hard sauce.

BEEF OR VEAL LOAF—To each pound of raw minced lean meat add an ounce of finely minced suet, half a small minced onion, a dust of pepper, a pinch of salt mixed through a scant spoonful of flour, and a light sprinkle of powdered herbs. Mix the seasoning well through the meat, shape it into a flat round cake, rub butter plentifully on the outside, put into a greased paper bag, seal and bake in a hot oven, allowing fifteen minutes to the pound. A few slices of tomato put in the bag helps to make tasty gravy. A spoonful of tomato catsup may be used instead. Sliced or quartered potatoes can be cooked around the bag. Small young turnips, peeled but not sliced, can likewise be cooked there. If carrots are added to the contents, put in a little stock or water. They should be scraped and sliced or quartered. If the loaf is to be eaten hot, as for a dinner, the vegetables help out amazingly. But if it is wanted for slicing cold, it is best cooked by itself.

BAKED ONIONS—Parboil for fifteen minutes Spanish or Bermuda onions, chill them in cold water, then cut a V out of the hearts. Fill the space with butter; after dusting it well with salt and pepper put the onions in a bag with a lump of butter and a very little water; seal and cook twenty minutes in a hot oven, or thirty in a very moderate one. A variation is to put either sausage or minced cold meat into the onion hearts, or to roll up thin slices of bacon and with them fill the cavities, adding a pinch of breadcrumbs after the rolls are in place.

SAVORY OYSTERS—Take two tablespoonfuls of white sauce, one teaspoonful of grated cheese, one tablespoonful of cream, the liquor from the oysters and seasoning to taste. Take half a dozen deep oyster shells. Put a little of the above mixture at the bottom; then put the raw breaded oyster in the middle, and a little more of the sauce on top, with a little breadcrumb and a small piece of butter. Place your buttered bag on the broiler, put your oysters carefully inside, seal up and allow eight minutes in a very hot oven.

SIRLOIN, RIBS OR ROUND OF BEEF Grease well with dripping—but this is not absolutely necessary. Put the joint in a bag. Do not season the joint before cooking. Put the joint on a broiler in a moderate oven. Allow 45 minutes to an hour for a three to five-pound roast.

ROAST CHICKEN—Cover the breast of the fowl or chicken with butter or dripping; or, better still, tie a piece of fat bacon over it. Place in bag and set on broiler in a hot oven Allow 25 minutes for a small spring chicken; 35 minutes for a large fowl; 45 to 50 minutes (according to size) for stuffed poultry or game in a moderate oven.

SWEETBREADS, AU NATUREL—Take four sweetbreads, parboil them, take off the skins, dust each sweetbread with salt and pepper very lightly and pour over each a tablespoonful of cream. Slip the sweetbreads into a thickly greased bag and cook in only moderately hot oven about forty minutes. Open bag, slip out contents on hot dish. Surround with border of green peas and serve.

Our Prepared Felt Roofings are Best and Most Economical

FORGET your roofing troubles. Stop patching up leaky shingle and tin roofs. Buy the new—the modern, the non-leakable—roofing material (Prepared Felt) which is so rapidly taking the place of all others. But, in buying felt roofing, be sure to select the best. There is only one best, and this is Montgomery Ward & Co.'s guaranteed roofing. Why is it the best? Because it has stood tests which no other roofing has stood. It is standing tests to-day which no other roofing can stand. In all climates—under all conditions—it is being used, and always with satisfactory results.

If you want real roofing satisfaction—if you want to know more about this economical, durable roofing of ours—just drop us a card and ask for our Roofing Book (No. 5). This will tell you how our roofings are made, how they are tested, why they are guaranteed. Take this book, compare the prices and you will find that the prices are actually from 20 to 50 per cent lower than you pay elsewhere for inferior roofing. And remember that you take no chance, for we absolutely guarantee our roofing for from 6 to 15 years, according to the quality you buy.

Treat Your Buildings to a New Coat of Paint

Picture to yourself that big red barn of yours with a nice, new coat of paint. It would look pretty nice, wouldn't it? "I can't afford it." Is that what we hear you say? Perhaps it will cost you a lot of money if you buy your paint of your local dealer, but just send for our paint book. This will show you how to paint your barn with the best paint on the market to-day at only a trifling cost. And this cost is really an investment, for a coat of paint pays for itself many times over in the protection it gives to your building.

Send for book No. 1.

Keep Warm This Winter—Buy a Good Fur Coat

Weather prophets predict a cold winter with lots of snow and ice. Are you ready? A fur coat will feel comfortable on those frosty days when you have to be out of doors. Better get your coat to-day and be ready for the first cold, stormy days. Our Fur Coat Book (No. 18) shows you a complete line of coats for every need—every purpose—every pocketbook. We have a coat here for you. THE GRUNDY MACHINE IN Bucks advances the name of Oscar O. Bean, a young Doylestown attorney, as its candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress.

BECAUSE OF THE CONTINUED ill health of Judge Stout, court business in Bucks is in a bad way.

There will be no session of Civil and Equity court next week, owing to the inability to secure a judge to preside. Other cases that were to be heard have been continued until December 21. The jurors, by order of Judge Staples, will be notified by the Sheriff not to report next Monday. All the cases on the list have been continued until Monday, January 1.

PRESIDENT TAFT HAS EVIDENTly decided to treat only one subject at a time in his messages to Congress. Accordingly when the National law makers assembled in Washington last Monday, the President addressed them in paper on the proper regulation of so-called trusts.

The State paper is too long for the busy man to read, but below we give extracts of its important points:

The President calls attention to the recommendation for federal incorporation contained in his message of January 1910, and renews that recommendation.

"The opportunity," says the message, "thus suggested for Federal incorporation, it seems to me, is suitable constructive legislation needed."

"I recommend that the Federal charters thus to be granted shall be voluntary, at least until experience justifies mandatory provisions."

"It must be distinctly understood that that incorporation under a Federal law could not exempt the company * * * from prosecution under the anti-trust law."

"They should be subject to rigid rules, * * * including effective publicity, and to the closest supervision as to the issue of stock and bonds by an executive bureau or commission."

Declaring that the anti-trust act known as the Sherman law, is "the expression of the effort of a freedom-loving people to preserve equality of opportunity," the President declares that as construed by the Supreme Court it "must continue to be the line of distinction for legitimate business."

"Now its efficacy is seen; now its power is heavy; now its object is near achievement. Now we hear the call for its repeal on the plea that it interferes with business prosperity, and we are advised in the most general terms, how by some other staute and in some other way the evil we are just stamping out can be cured, if we only abandon this work of twenty years and try another experiment for another term of years."

"It must be enforced, unless we are to banish individualism from all business and reduce it to one common system of regulation or control of prices like that which now prevails with respect to public utilities and which when applied to all business would be a long step toward State socialism."

"The discussions which have been brought out by the fear of the continued execution of the anti-trust law have produced nothing but glittering generalities."

Mr. Taft declares that "mere size is no sin against the law" and says: "It is not the purpose of the statute to confiscate the property and capital of offending trusts."

"As the offence becomes better understood * * *, we can be confident * * * jail sentences will be imposed."

The Oil and Tobacco trust decisions, says the message, suggest the need of supplemental legislation "to make it easier for the entire business community to square to the rule" of legality and he suggests the enactment of a law "which shall describe and denounce methods of competition which are * * * badges of the unlawful purpose."

"The attempt and purpose to suppress a competitor by underselling him at a price unprofitable as to drive him out of business, or the making of exclusive contracts * * * and numerous kindred methods for stifling competition and effecting monopoly should be described with accuracy in a criminal statute * * *."

Asserting that the decisions in the Oil and Tobacco cases were "epoch-making" the President defends vigorously the so-called Rule of Reason.

"It has been said" he declares "that the court, by introducing into the construction of the statute common law distinctions, has emasculated it. This is obviously untrue. By its judgment every contract and combination in restraint of interstate trade made with the purpose or necessary effect of controlling prices by stifling competition, or of establishing in whole or in part a monopoly of such trade, is condemned by the statute. The most extreme critics cannot instance a case that ought to be condemned under the statute which is not brought within its terms as thus construed."

"A reasonable restraint of trade at common law is well understood and is clearly defined. It does not rest in the discretion of the court."

"I venture to say that not in the history of the American law has a decree more effective for such a purpose been entered by a court than that against the Tobacco Trust."

"It seems possible to bring about these reorganizations without general business disturbance."

POLITICS TO DATE

ELECTION CONTEST STARTED

Messrs. McAvoy and Malsberger Say Votes Were Thrown Out.

Henry Freedley, attorney, has filed in Norristown court petitions contesting the election of Dr. J. N. Jacobs, as County Controller and Conrad S. Sheive, as District Attorney. Freedley represents George N. Malsberger, of Pottstown, who was Democratic-Keystone candidate for Controller and for Charles D. McAvoy, of Norristown, Keystone-Democratic candidate for District Attorney.

The contention is based on whether a ballot should be counted or rejected on which the voter made two marks back of a candidate's name instead of one by marking in both the "Democrat" and "Keystone" squares. A number of election boards have been heard from, it is declared, and many votes for McAvoy and Malsberger were thrown out because the voter had voted twice for a candidate, enough, the petitioners declare, to elect both McAvoy and Malsberger.

Conrad Sheive, of Norristown, the Republican elected District Attorney, had 363 majority by the official count, while John N. Jacobs, of Lansdale, for Controller, had 549.

In opposition to Boss Johnson, who apparently is willing to hog everything within reach in the way of offices, C. Tyson Kratz, of Norristown, a Keystoner, who has for years been fighting the organization, has filed with the County Commissioner a petition to have his name appear on the Republican ballot next year as a candidate for delegate to the National Convention of the Republican party in 1912. The petition, which contains 20 signatures, says:

"I stand for progressive Republicanism and in opposition to the absurdity and disgrace of having the delegation under the donination of a discredited Philadelphia boss. If before the April primaries it shall appear that in the opinion of others of like mind some one other than myself will make a stronger run before the people, I shall most willingly retire in his favor. I have become accustomed to ten years' warfare to blaze the way for independent Republicanism, and have never had, and have not now, any objection to others receiving the honor if thereby the cause is advanced."

DEPUTIES NAMED IN BUCKS.

Recently elected Bucks county officials on Tuesday made known their appointments of deputies and clerks as follows:

Deputy Sheriff, Nelson K. Leatherman, of Doylestown.

Deputy Recorder, Bernard McDonnell. Clerks, Albert P. Leatherman, Frank J. Rich and George H. McIntyre.

Deputy Register, A. Harry Clayton.

Deputy Treasurer, William H. Murphy, of Doylestown.

Deputy Clerk of Orphans' Court, John W. Longacre, of Rich Hill.

Clerk to the County Commissioners, Washington C. Gallagher.

Head Jailer, William A. Fletcher.

Deputy Prothonotary, William A. Paxson, of Doylestown.

William P. Kelly, who was elected Clerk of Quarter Sessions, will attend personally to the duties of his office.

"ONE GOOD TURN DESERVES ANOTHER."

Winfield S. Holland, of Conshohocken, son of Judge Holland, of the United States District Court, has been appointed to a lucrative clerkship in the Philadelphia office of the Insurance Department of Pennsylvania.

The appointment is said to carry with it a salary of $2500 per year, and was made by the new Insurance Commissioner and county boss, Charles Johnson.

Young Holland has heretofore held a clerkship under the Republican State Committee, and during the last legislative session held a clerkship at Harrisburg.

ELECTION DISTRICT DIVIDED.

At Norristown, the Court divided into two election districts the Sixth Ward, in which is located the Norristown Hospital for the Insane.

There were nearly 700 votes cast in this ward at the last election, and the election board was not through counting the votes until 7 o'clock the morning after the election. The large vote here is due to the increasing number of voters at the State hospital.

$1065 SPENT TO ELECT SOLLY

The sum of $1065.24 was spent in the election of Judge Solly to the Orphans'-Court bench in Montgomery county, according to a statement filed by George K. Brecht, a member of the bar, who was treasurer of the non-partisan Judiciary Committee.

The Fox Chase and Huntingdon Valley Turnpike Company met at Lady Washington Inn, Monday, December 4th, and reorganized by electing the old board: Israel Hallowell, president; John Warner, treasurer, and Henry W. Hallowell, secretary. They also declared a dividend of fifty cents a share.

The Moreland Road Supervisors met on Monday last at Lady Washington hotel, Bethayres, and reorganized. Harry W. Hallowell was chosen president; W. H. Raisner, secretary, and Harry Kates, treasurer. Harry Propert was reappointed lower end road master. The position of road master for the upper end not filled.

Moreland School Board reorganized last Monday evening at Lady Washington hotel, when the new director, Clement Keightly took his seat. The new officers elected were as follows: President, Henry Doering; Clement Keightly, vice president; H. Benton Leedom, secretary; Jesse Holt, treasurer. Clement Keightly was appointed local director for Willow Grove school. The Hatboro National Bank was chosen as depository of funds.

The Bible class of the Huntingdon Valley Presbyterian Sunday school held its yearly business meeting on Tuesday evening, December 5th, at the home of the class teacher, Rev. J. M. Welch. The meeting was opened by prayer, after which the roll was called, 14 members responded. After the election of officers for the coming year and the usual business concluded, the remainder of the evening was very pleasantly spent being entertained by the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Welch.

HOLLAND

Lafayette Finney ruptured a blood vessel in his eye caused by violent coughing.

Wilbert Merrick commenced pork butchering this week. He has a new gasoline engine.

Harold and Eleanor Johnson, of Newtown, have been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Johnson.

Mrs. William Worthington spent part of last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stoker, of Southampton.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Paxson and daughter, Phoebe, spent Thursday of last week with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Finney.

1996-98

AN ORDINANCE

To Change the Purpose of a Part of the Appropriations Made in 1911 to the Highway and Miscellaneous Departments.

WHEREAS: There is a balance in the 1911 appropriations as follows:

Sinking Fund & interest account	$ 52 48
Miscellaneous & contingent fund	197 39
Police Department	5849 65
Highway Department	21 72
Board of Health	500 00

AND WHEREAS: There is a deficiency in the Miscellaneous and Highway Department appropriations for 1911

THEREFORE, the Board of Township Commissioners of Cheltenham Township do ordain and enact that the sum of $53.48 of the sinking fund appropriation, the sum of $4170.96 of the moneys appropriated in 1911 for the police department, and the sum of $500. of the moneys appropriated in 1911 for the Board of Health be, and the same are hereby transferred as follows:—$102.70 to the Miscellaneous and Contingent Fund and $4,920.84 to the Highway Department. The reason for such transfer is that the needs of the Miscellaneous and Highway Department appropriations were found to exceed the appropriations for those purposes, and there is an excess available from the other appropriations as above set forth.

Approved this Fourth day of December, A. D., 1911.

GEO. D. WIDENER, President.

AN ORDINANCE

Making Certain Changes and Additions in the Rules and Regulations of the Board of Health of Cheltenham Township Enacted November 5, 1907

Be it ordained and enacted by the Board of Commissioners of Cheltenham Township, Montgomery County, Pa., that the following changes and additions be made in the rules and regulations of the Board of Health of Cheltenham Township:

On page 4, Section 1. Omit "and shall be liable for the expense of the abatement and remedy thereof."

Page 8, Section 12. For the word "forthwith" substitute "within twenty-four (24) hours." Also after "Board of Health" insert "of Cheltenham Township."

Page 9, Section 18. Between the words "Chickenpox" and "Cholera" insert the word "Measles."

"In the case of Diphtheria all clinical evidence of the disease must have disappeared and two successive negative cultures (examined by the Board of Health of Cheltenham Township) with not less than a twenty-four hour interval between them, have been obtained from the site of the disease."

Page Section 26. Add the following: "In addition to the periodical fumigation of same as required by the State Laws, all public, private and parochial schools shall be fumigated where any pupil in attendance of said school shall have contracted cholera, small pox, scarlet fever, typhus fever, yellow fever, relapsing fever, diphtheria, (membranous croup), leprosy, epidemic cerebro-spinal meningitis, measles and chicken pox."

Page 7. Add to Section 11: "Nor shall any manure pile be maintained within one hundred and fifty (150) feet of any inhabited dwelling except it be in a water tight pit properly covered."

Section 12. Add:

"No person shall install or use any system of disposal of sewage either by privy vaults, cesspools, or by connection with a municipal sewer system without such method be in accordance with a regularly adopted system which has been planned by a competent sanitary engineer and approved by the Commissioner of Health. All cesspools, privy vaults, and sewer connections must be constructed and maintained in accordance with the system so approved and adopted."

Section

No person shall spit on any sidewalk, or any street car, public conveyance, or on the floor or steps of any public hall or building."

Section

Citizens desirous of having bacteriological examinations made of water supplies or sources may have such analysis made without charge by the Board of Health of Cheltenham Township.

If the water is found to be unfit for use and dangerous to health, the Health Officer is instructed to placard in manner and style as directed by the Health Laws.

Section

"Any member of the Board of Health of Cheltenham Township who shall without sufficient cause or without having been excused from attendance by the Board of Health, fail to attend the stated meetings of the Board of Health or otherwise neglect his duties as a member of the Board of Health for a period of six months, shall be considered to have withdrawn from membership in the said Board and the Commissioners of the Township shall proceed to fill the vacancy thus created."

Regulations of the Sale of Milk, Cream, and Skimmed Milk, Within the Township of Cheltenham.

It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporate body or their Agents, Servants, or Employees, to sell, offer for sale or expose for sale, milk, cream, or skimmed milk within the Township of Cheltenham without a Registration Certificate.

Registration Certificate, How to Obtain.

Any person, firm, etc., desiring to enter the milk business shall make application to the Board of Health of Cheltenham Township, Ogontz, in person or in writing and obtain blank forms, which shall be filled in as directed, and sworn to before a Notary Public and then delivered in person or by registered mail to the Board of Health of Cheltenham Township, Ogontz, Pa. Upon receipt of such application properly filled in the Secretary shall then issue a Registration Certificate to the applicant with the seal of the Board of Health of Cheltenham Township attached.

All persons, firms, etc. obtaining milk from any dairy other than their own shall submit a list of such dairies, in writing, sworn to before a Notary, to the Board of Health of Cheltenham Township, and shall amend such lists from time to time as changes may occur. Failure to comply with this law shall be deemed sufficient reason to annul the Registration Certificate.

Pure and Impure Milk.

No person, firm, etc., shall offer for sale or expose for sale, etc., any milk, etc., that shall have been obtained from a dairy condemned by the State Veterinarian and Live Stock Sanitary Board.

The standard of milk purity shall be the same as that prescribed by the General Assembly, June 8th, A. D. 1911, a copy of which will be found on page of these laws.

Enacted into an ordinance this Sixth day of December, A. D. 1911.

Officers were named for 1912 as follows: Harry Goebel for president; Henry Seher, vice president; George H. Kiel, secretary; George H. Dill, treasurer; J. Menough, chief; and a board of twelve directors.

The world seems to think that throwing bouquets at a man after he is dead evens it up for having thrown the harpoon into him when he was alive.

HATBORO HOME HAPPENINGS

THE NEIGHBORS.

"The Neighbors" met on Saturday December 2nd, at 2.45 p. m. Vice President Emma Jones presided. The secretary inquired who wished to attend a meeting of the Drama League to be held in Philadelphia, December 12. Those who could attend would be supplied with tickets. A delegation was also appointed to attend a Peace and Arbitration meeting December 13.

A beautiful selection was given by the chorus, after which Elizabeth H. Comly gave a paper on "The Friendships of Noted Women." This proved to be an instructive and learned article dealing with women of ancient and medieval times. Miss Yeakle followed on the same subject, speaking of the friendships of women in more modern times. The beautiful relation of Charles and Mary Lamb was dwelt upon. This subject was further discussed informally over the teacups.

The refreshments were served by the reception committee and their aids while a mandolin and guitar selection was rendered by Mrs. W. Rothwell and Misses Eleanor Morgan and Rachel Jarrett. The chorus gave a medley of old fashioned songs which was much enjoyed.

The chorus of women's voices organized in connection with the Neighbors has the following members: Misses Passmore, Hattie Jones, Amy Yerkes, Eleanor Walmsley, Frances Scheet, Bessie Neely, Elsie Yeakle, Clara MacNair, Blanche Downie, Elinor Morgan, Ada Walton, Ethel Neely and Angie Jones. Accompanist, Miss Anna Logan.

Luther Clayton visited Chestnut Hill friends on Saturday.

John D. Craven, of Buckingham, was in the borough on Tuesday.

Miss Isabel Clayton spent last week with friends in Southampton.

Miss Mary Kerbaugh has returned home after spending a week in Philadelphia.

Miss Dora Marple is assisting in Mrs. A. S. Logan's store during the holiday season.

Mrs. Elizabeth Beans is spending sometime with relatives in Philadelphia and Jenkintown.

Moore's inn will serve roast wild duck dinner this Saturday evening from 5.30 to 8 o'clock.

Milton Vanartsdalen and wife visited Leonard Slack and wife, of near Ivyland on Sunday last.

Harry G. Ely auctioneer for Thomas Hague sold a drove of cows at Moores' inn on Monday last at fair prices.

Mrs. Logan has a large stock of holiday goods suitable for young and old. A partial list will be found on this page.

Walter Rothwell has had a glass window telephone booth installed at his drug store. The new booth is the latest used by up-to-date druggists of Philadelphia.

J. N. Watson will hold a combination sale at C. C. Moore's hotel on Saturday, the 9th. Anyone having goods to sell, should notify Mr. Watson, so as to have them listed.

Postal inspectors looked over the affairs of the Hatboro post office on Saturday last and complimented Postmaster Watson and Assistant Clayton the way the office accounts are kept.

During the past week the water remaining in the basement of the M. E. church has been removed by the laying of a new drain. The basement is now thoroughly dry and comfortable.

Mrs. Samuel Yerkes entertained the Ladies' Guild of the M. E. church on Wednesday afternoon, and the Mite Society was entertained at the home of C. K. Crouthamel and wife on Friday night.

The snow on Monday morning was the first real fall of the season, covering the ground, and giving the landscape a wintry aspect. On Tuesday then rst sleigh of the season passed the Spirit office—it was carried on an automobile truck.

There will be a sale and supper held in the lecture room of the M. E. church, on Saturday evening, 16th, for the benefit of the building fund. Ice cream, cakes, candy, aprons, useful and fancy articles will be for sale.

J. N. Watson says that many articles have been listed for his combination sale at Moore's Inn this Saturday, since the bills were printed. He will have pigs and cows and antique china and much besides. He invites the ladies particularly.

The Hatboro school board reorganized last Monday evening by electing W. W. Wilgus, president; Harry Wilson, vice president; Walter Thoman, treasurer, and T. E. Paxson, secretary. The members of the board are: W. W. Wilgus, Harry Wilson, J. Walter Thoman, T. E. Paxson and James Kearns.

Sheriff C. F. Buckley with the assistance of a board of appraisers consisting of Charles C. McNair, William F. Wilson, Warren M. Cornell, J. N. Watson, Samuel Gehman and John S. Leidy appraised the real estate of the Eisenbrey property, York road near Byberry avenue, on Saturday last. The property will be sold at an early date.

J. N. Watson, auctioneer, sold the personal effects belonging to estate of Frank Snyder at public sale on Saturday afternoon last. The Snyders sold out their paper business and pool room to Henry Hungerford, who took possession December 1. The Snyders returned to Philadelphia, where they formerly resided. Mr. Hungerford's son, Ralph, will attend to the paper delivery.

A very successful concert was given by the students of Miss Byrd E. Blake at Wilgus' hall last Friday evening. The program was rendered in a satisfactory manner, all performing their selections with ease and confidence. It was a credit to the teacher and scholars alike. Those taking part were the following: Margaret Miller, Kenneth Acton, Myrtle Crouthamel, Helen Lefferta, Amelia Kerbaugh, Miriam Spade, Alberta Slack, Muriel Park, Carrie Schreitz, Emma Park, Alma White, Edith Gehman, Alice Sheldon, Louisa Milnor.

BIG INCREASE IN FARES

Railroad Company Will Raise Rate on Round Trip Tickets on January First.

The Reading Railway Company has given notice of a big increase in fares to take effect on January 1 next. The lines covered by the increase include: The Northeast Pennsylvania, Bethlehem, Bound Brook, North Penn, Doylestown, Newtown and Frankford. The increase will be on round trip excursion tickets. The increase in fare between Hatboro and the Reading Terminal will be 25 cents, the fare now is 60 cents, the new rate will be 85 cents.

Rates at other stations on the branch will be as follows: Ivyland, 90 cents; Johnsville, 92 cents; Bonair 89 cents; Willow Grove, 74 cents; Roslyn, 65 cents; Glenside, 48 cents; Jenkintown, 44 cents.

As a slight concession to its patrons the Railroad company will place on sale excursion tickets between all points for a few cents reduction from a straight two way fare.

The great increase in fare will have a tendency to increase travel at all points where trolley service competes. The trolley round trip fare between Hatboro and Philadelphia is 30 cents. 50 cents less than the new railroad fare. Hatboro, Willow Grove, Crestmont, Roslyn and Glenside people will more and more use the trolley and thus save their money.

The Railroad Company announces that there will be a change of train time on Sunday, December 17th.

WILMER WOOD BUYS FARM.

Wilmer Wood, formerly of Horsham, and now of Hatboro, has purchased the farm on the Norristown road, in Horsham, owned by the estate of Comly Wood. It contains 71 acres, and has a large stone mansion house, surrounded by trees and is one of the valuable properties of Horsham township.

Wilmer Wood sold his farm in Horsham last year to Howard Williams and came to Hatboro to live retired, but soon found that an inactive life was not what he was accustomed to and has purchased the property to farm, expecting to remove to the place April first.

The farm was formerly occupied by Edwin Wood for a number of years and is now tenanted by William Valentine. The sale of the property was made through Warren M. Cornell, Hatboro real estate broker.

COUNCIL REORGANIZES.

Borough council reorganized on last Monday evening in the council chamber. Burgess William Mottershead administered the oath of office to the newly elected councilmen, Messrs. Gehman and Morris, Councilman Fenton being absent. Councilman Jones was elected president, Warren M. Cornell, secretary; Oliver T. Watson, treasurer, and J. M. Walmsley, street commissioner. The offices of solicitor and janitor were not filled. President Jones appointed the following committees: Light and water, Gehman and Stockdale; street and police, Snively and Wilson; pavement, borough property, finance and law, Fenton and Morris. The present board consist of Paul Jones, E. F. Snively, Frank K. Fenton, Frank Stockdale, William V. Wilson, Harry J. Morris and Samuel S. Gehman.

WILL DIVIDE NORTH WALES.

A movement is on foot to divide North Wales into wards to afford better accommodations to voters. With the big blanket ballot and combination of spring with fall elections, and more than 500 voters on the list, it is impossible for the election board to give the voters, many of whom are working men and who vote after working hours, the legal accommodations, and besides it is too much work for one board. At the recent election the returns could not be completed until noon the next day. It is proposed to divide into three divisions, which would be about 200 voters to a poll.

HARTSVILLE

Laura Koch spent Sunday with her parents, Charles Koch and family.

Our public school reopened on Monday after the Thanksgiving holidays.

SEVENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF HATBORO METHODIST CHURCH

Started Three-Fourths of a Century Ago With Services in a School Room —House of Worship Made Possible by Generosity of Joseph Lehman— Names of the Early Workers—Special Anniversary Services Next Week.

The seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Lehman's Chapel, Methodist Episcopal church, of Hatboro, will be celebrated Sunday, December 10, and the week following. Sunday's services will be as follows: Morning at 10.30, when the Rev. Frank P. Parkin, D. D., District Superintendent of the Central District of the Philadelphia Conference, will preach; afternoon at 3.30, when the Rev. C. Wesley Burns, S. T. D., a former Sunday school scholar, and now pastor of one of the leading churches of Methodism, First church, Germantown, will deliver the anniversary address; and evening, at 7.45, when the Rev. Samuel W. Gehrett, D. D., an honored former pastor, an ex-District Superintendent, and at present Corresponding Secretary of the Philadelphia Methodist Episcopal Home for the Aged, will be the speaker. Special music will be rendered at all services, the choir of the Baptist church of the town supplying the music for the afternoon service.

REV. J. P. SHOOK.

The celebration during the week will be on Tuesday, December 12, at 8 p. m., when the Rev. Linn Bowman, D. D., pastor of the Park avenue church, Philadelphia, will preach; on Thursday, December 14, at 8 p. m. when the Rev. W. Gray Jones, pastor of Oak Lane M. E. church will preach, and Saturday, December 16, afternoon and evening, when an anniversary chicken supper and sale of cakes, candies and fancy articles will be held in the social hall, under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild.

This church was the first to be organized in the town. It grew out of a Sunday school established to counteract the gross and flagrant evils of the place, and to provide a place for worship. Some doubt shadows the beginning of the school, but judging from the scanty knowledge obtainable, it was probably a union effort, and had for its leaders and founders, Mrs. Hannah Yerkes, wife of Joseph B. Yerkes, a woman of rare force and character and of Baptist proclivities, and the Rev. Peter Y. Eisenbrey, father of Mrs. George R. Palmer, who is now one of the oldest members of the church; an honored local preacher of the Methodist Episcopal church. According to one authority Mrs. Yerkes induced the Rev. Charles Pitman, a Methodist preacher, to come and introduce preaching services in the Academy hall. How long this union effort continued cannot be determined, but first the Methodists under the leadership of Peter Eisenbrey, assisted by his brother, Rev. Henry Eisenbrey, and then the Baptists under the inspiration of Mrs. Yerkes, started separate societies.

The Methodists met at first in an old eight-square school house, which stood on the site of the Crooked Billet monument. In the early summer of 1836, a Mr. Joseph Lehman, of Hamilton Village, Philadelphia, visited the town, and learning of the struggle of the Methodists to secure a suitable place for worship, he came to their aid, first, by purchasing from Robert Radcliffe, June 7, 1836, the present site of about one and a half acres for which he paid $300. Then he built thereon a plain stone church, forty by fifty feet in dimensions. The cornerstone was laid September 8, 1836 when the Rev. David Bartine preached.

Mr. Lehman continued his beneficence by erecting a parsonage in 1843, and by bequeathing to the society $2250 to be held by the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church within the bounds of the Philadelphia Conference for promoting Foreign and Domestic Missions as Trustees, and the income from which is paid to the pastor to be used for wearing apparel.

To fully appreciate Mr. Lehman's liberality it must be remembered that he was an Episcopalian and his wife, Deborah, a Friend.

During the first twenty-three years of its history, the church existed as a mission under the control of Philadelphia Conference Missionary Society. Mr. Lehman made the Society trustee of the property until such time as the church was strong enough to become an independent corporation. The first pastor was the Rev. William K. Goentner, who served the charge with much success for one year, March 1837 to March 1838, and who, when he gave up the ministry, located here, becoming one of the community's leading citizens. During his pastorate the church was dedicated, May 22, 1837, and the membership increased from five to fifty-five. These early years were not unmixed with persecution. It is said that during one of the revival meetings a service was nearly broken up by some hostile minded folk, who brought a calf and set it free in the midst of the worshipers.

The society continued as a mission until May 20, 1859, when, having acquired sufficient strength to stand alone, it was incorporated as the "Lehman's Chapel Methodist Episcopal church of Hatborough." The petition to the court for incorporation was subscribed to in following order by Peter Y. Eisenbrey, Edward Reading, M. D., Charles Wakefield, James J. Moore, James H. Jones, Justice H. McVaugh, Lewis R. Willard, John Boyer, Edward M. Martindell, John M. McDowell, Charles Michener and George McVaugh. The charter provided for five trustees and the first ones were Peter Y. Eisenbrey, James J. Moore, Charles Wakefield, Charles Michener and Edward Reading, M. D.

Application was made, May 31, 1876, to have the charter amended increasing the number of trustees to nine and making a few other changes. Dr. Edward Reading, Isaac M. Fell and William Booskirk personally appeared before the court with the petition. It was subscribed to by Isaac M. Fell, President of trustees; Edward Reading, M. D. secretary, George H. Burns, Edmund Mottershead, William Boskirk, Hiram Reading, and Jesse Boskirk. The charter as amended was approved by the Court, June 27, 1876. It has continued unaltered to the present time.

Little was done in improving the church property until 1879, when during the pastorate of Rev. S. H. Hoover, D. D., and under the leadership of Dr. Edward Reading, the church was rebuilt after a Gothic design, and a Sunday school room, a class room, and steeple added.

During the past year extensive additions and alterations, costing $8000 were again made. The old gallery was taken out of the audience room, the position of the choir changed, the Sunday school rooms greatly enlarged, and a social room and fully equipped kitchen added.

Many prominent pastors have served the church. Of those since 1870, four became District Superintendents, Revs. J. R. T. Gray, D. D., S. W. Gehrett, D. D., Solomen H. Hoover, D. D. and Eli E. Burriss, D. D.

The present membership of the church is 205, and of the Sunday school, 210. The present pastor, J. P. Shook, is in the fifth year of his pastorate.

The present Board of Trustees are Paul Jones, T. E. Paxson, Reuben Hockman, John S. Leidy, A. J. Miller, J. N. Watson, William F. Wilson, John Lindsay and J. C. Camack.

The Elsenbrey brothers were also organizers of the M. E. Sunday school at Jarrettown, which afterwards grew into a church congregation.

Postmaster Watson has been notified that the postal department is about to put out 13 new postal-stamp designs In the new designs, instead of Franklin's face face appearing on the 1-cent stamp, as is the case now, the face of Washington will be on all six of the stamps of the lowest denominations. The five highest denominations, being those of the 8, 10, 15, 50-cent and $1 varieties, will bear the face of Franklin. Besides the picture of Washington on the 1-cent stamp, the numeral "1" will be used. The present design has the "one" spelled out. The same is true of the 2-cent stamp. The new 2-cent stamp will carry the numeral "2" in each of the lower corners. On the stamps of 3, 4, 5 and 6-cent denominations, the wreath surrounding the head of Washington, as shown on the 2-cent stamp, will be eliminated, and the denomination printed in a curved line above the head.

JENKINTOWN.

ACTIVE AND VIGOROUS AT 80.

Forty business and professional men, residents of Ogontz, Elkins Park, Wyncote and Jenkintown districts, were entertained last Saturday night at the home of William Conard, the event being a testimonial to mark Mr. Conard's 80th birthday. The affair was arranged by State Senator Heacock, of Wyncote.

Mr. Conard, at 80, is still in active harness as a builder and contractor, and disagrees utterly with the Osierian theory. The Conard theory is that "every man should work or be in business just as long as he is physically capable." Mr. Conard has been in the building business in the York road section for half a century.

H. T. Glinz visited Ardmore on Tuesday.

Anna B. Krabehl visited city friends on Sunday.

J. G. Trank has recovered from a heavy cold.

Mrs. Anna H. Clark entertained friends on Saturday.

William E. Hurd is employed on the Wanamaker property.

Chief Jensen was at Norristown on Monday to attend court.

George Gray, of Logan, visited friends here on Saturday.

L. M. Bean has a large crop of apples on his Moreland farm.

Mrs. H. Degman, of Philadelphia, visited Mrs. C. D. Musser on Monday.

George Fleck is having his stores on Greenwood avenue repainted.

George and Elwood Hallowell, of Glenside, visited friends here on Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Ida Morgan, of Bristol, visited relatives here on Saturday and Sunday.

The Trust Company has placed a neat iron fence in front of their lawn on York avenue.

Mrs. Mary A. Buckman has returned to Norristown after spending a few days with relatives here.

W. H. Goodwin and family returned home on Monday after spending Thanksgiving with relatives.

Tacie A. Walton returned home to Frankford on Saturday, after spending a few days with friends here.

John C. Roberts was qualified for the office of assistant assessor for the lower district of Abington township, on Monday.

The evangelistic meetings of the M. E. church were successful. Several persons were added to the membership of the church.

The communion service at the Baptist church on Sunday morning was largely attended. The subject of the sermon by Dr. Cooper was "Christian Remembrance."

Mrs. Abram Griffith has received a letter from her son, Major Griffith, who is teaching in one of the American Missionary colleges, in Constantinople, Turkey.

J. B. Anderson recently moved from West avenue to his new home on Greenwood avenue. He owns a nice property there and is in the real estate business in the city.

Builder John Hohlefelder has now a dwelling house under construction, also one store building, one garage, and one stable. They are situated in Jenkintown, Glenside, Oak Lane and Willow Grove. He has fifty men on his pay roll.

Among recent visitors in town were Squire Ely and H. Benton Leedom, of Bethayres, Squire Satterthwaite, of Horsham, Joseph Shoemaker, W. H. Magargal and F. B. McCoy, of McKinley, Paul Fletcher, of La Mott, Mrs. John Doyle, of Philadelphia.

Letters of administration have been granted in the following estates: Hannah W. Linton, of Abington, to Wm. P. Sheppless. Value of personalty, $15,000; and real estate under construction. Elizabeth Manion, of Cheltenham, to Jenkintown Trust Company. Value of personalty, $50, and real estate in Cheltenham.

The lady minstrels drew a large attendance at their entertainment last Saturday evening at the Old York Road Country Club. The receipts were about $150. Those taking part in the affair were Misses Caroline Thomson, Frances Robbins, Emma Richards, Esther Wass, Blanche Daniels, Mary Hallowell, Doris Wetherbee, Elsie Daniels, Anna Roberts, Marion Gayley, Hannah Hallowell, Dorothea Schively.

Michael O'Conner, one of our oldest residents, died at his home on Nice avenue early on Tuesday morning, in his 75th year. The funeral services were held on Thursday at Immaculate Conception church. Interment at Holy Cross Cemetery. He leaves a wife and one son, James O'Conner. he was born in Ireland and has lived here for over 50 years. He was gardener for the late John Newbold for over 30 years. He was an honest and industrious man, and leaves many friends who will miss him.

By their 11 to 0 victory over the strong Abington team last Saturday afternoon, the Jenkintown Boys' Club, playing the final game of the season, claims the championship of the Old York road section, in so far as football is concerned. Frazier kicked a splendid field goal from the 30-yard line, and Hamel's touchdown was scored on a long and spectacular run. Wheelock kicked the goal after Hamel's touchdown, and the additional two points of the 11 total were made on a safety.

Jenkintown officials and residents are again interested in a renewal of the proposition to largely increase the borough area by the annexation of large acreages lying north of the present borough lines. The tract involved is known as the Baeder tract and is a part of the suburban realty holdings of John Wanamaker. Recently the field has been opened for development and a number of costly homes have been built. The property is in Abington township and is now under "first class township" form of government; but the movement to come into Jenkintown is meeting with considerable approval. The question is now being considered by the Town Council of Jenkintown.

Dr. S. H. Cross has a nice new automobile.

S. H. Gentry and wife visited city friends on Saturday.

Joseph Broadhurst, attorney, of Philadelphia, was here on Friday on legal business.

Mrs. Horace M. Musser, of Bellefonte, was the guest of Mrs. Joseph Lynch on Sunday.

Miss O'Neill, of Philadelphia, spent Thanksgiving with her parents, Hugh O'Neill and wife. She is taking a course for a trained nurse in one of the Philadelphia hospitals.

E. L. Hallman and Thomas Hallman, attorneys for Maggie M. Harper, executrix of the estate of the late Senator Thomas B. Harper, have instituted suit against Grace Shaln, to recover $405, with interest from June 27, 1910, for boring a 6-inch artesian well, 180 feet deep, on her premises at Washington Square at the contract price of $2.25 per foot.

At Norristown this week Charles Barker, of Jenkintown, was tried on charges preferred by his wife, Mrs. Harriet Barker, for assault and battery and non-support. Samuel H. High represented the defendant. The defendant and his wife did not live together. On October 22d last, the defendant came to his wife's home in an intoxicated condition and he struck and beat her. She said he had not paid anything for her support for some time. Verdict, guilty of assault and battery.

Terrible Suffering

Eczema All Over Baby's Body.

"When my baby was four months old his face broke out with eczema, and at sixteen months of age, his face, hands and arms were in a dreadful state. The eczema spread all over his body. We had to put a mask or cloth over his face and tie up his hands. Finally we gave him Hood's Sarsaparilla and in a few months he was entirely cured. Today he is a healthy boy." Mrs. Inez Lewis, Baring, Maine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures blood diseases and builds up the system.

Aged Woman, Forty-one Years With Family, Buried in Family Plot.

Forty-one years of faithful service as a domestic in the family of Mrs. Robert Shoemaker, of Germantown, have ended for Rose McFadden, who was buried in the Shoemaker family plot in Cheltenham Cemetery on Friday. Members of the family, although but recently bereaved by the death of Mrs. Shoemaker, attended the funeral and manifested the most sincere grief at the death of the aged woman.

As nearly as the Shoemaker family was able to determine, Rose McFadden was about eighty-five years old. She came from Ireland to America when about thirty years old and entered the employ of Mrs. Shoemaker, in 1870, remaining with the family continuously until the death of Mrs. Shoemaker.

Perhaps the only way to get rid of the effeminate young man and the mannish young woman is to marry them off to each other.

DIES AT MARRIAGE FEAST

Farmer Fatally Stricken Among Assembled Guests.

Daniel R. Landis, a farmer of Gratersford, who for years has attended the Philadelphia markets, died Sunday of apoplexy at his home in the midst of a feast given in honor of the marriage of his daughter, Anna, to Elias N. Bechtel, of Harleysville, a few hours before. He was assembled among the guests when stricken and died instantly, thus turning a house of joy into a house of sorrow.

$7500 VERDICT SUSTAINED.

Judge Weand at Norristown last Monday refused a new trial to the Lehigh Valley Transit Company, thus sustaining a verdict of $7500 rendered against the company in a damage suit brought by Adele M. Trumbower, who was permanently injured in a collision between a car and a carriage in which she was riding near Lansdale a year ago.

SUCCESSFUL HUNTERS.

Returning from a successful hunting trip through the wilds of Maine, where they had great luck, Matthew Haist, Charles Moston, Frank Ridge and Thomas Haist, all of Byberry, brought back with them a huge six-pronged moose, weighing over 1000 pounds, and eight buck deer, which have been on exhibition at the residence of Mr. Haist on the Thomas Scallerose farm at Byberry. The party, which left two weeks ago for Maine, soon encountered heavy snow, in some instances over two and a half feet deep, which made traveling very difficult. Mr. Ridge was the most fortunate member of the party, bringing down the 1000-pound moose. The other game was distributed among the other hunters.

CHURCHVILLE W. C. T. U.

Bucks County Temperance Women Hold Session.

With Caroline Craven presiding and Emily L. Hart, secretary pro tem., the Churchville W. C. T. U. convened at the home of Joseph and Alice Thorn on December second, with a good attendance.

Mrs. Ella S. Barcalow conducted devotions. Emilie L. Hart gave an interesting talk on home and other philanthropic work. A letter was read from Emily Wilbur, of the Friends' Neighborhood Guild, thanking the union for a box of clothing and eatables just received. A local need had also been attended to, and coal, clothing and provisions placed where sickness had prevented the bread winner of the family from providing them himself. Sympathy and kindness had also been shown the mother and her four little ones. Miss Laura Rhoads will have charge of a Christmas box to be sent to the city. Several yards of adhesive tape was distributed among the members that each might collect a half yard of nickles or dimes for the treasury. The next meeting will occur at the home of Miss Mary Saurman, Southampton, on the first Saturday in January, 1912. The program will consist of readings and talks concerning the good accruing from a total abstinant life. Various questions and topics were assigned to Jane Knight, Mrs. Harry Tomlinson, Emily Hart and others.

The superintendents for the year are: S. T. I work, Mrs. Emily H. Yerkes; T. L. B, Jane Knight; flower mission, Emily L. Hart; literature and franchise, Mary Worthington; mothers 'work, Mrs. Craven; social purity or moral education, M. A. Scott; anti-narcotics, Miss Mary Leedom. The ways and means committee, Madams Hart, Long and Thorn, are planning to entertain some time in January 1912.

The members of the social committee are Miss Jane Knight, Miss Mary Saurman, Mrs. Walter Yerkes, Mrs. Rebecca Yerkes, Mrs. Flora Harvison, Miss Mary Leedom, Mrs. Mary Worthington, Mrs. Edna Worthington, Mrs. Maud Haldeman.

Mrs. Able Barcalow reported temperance work done in the State and county Sabbath schools. $2000 has been appropriated for the work. A number of pledges have been signed and good work done on World's temperance Sunday, partly in response to the Doyle letter in which were sent out by John Wanamaker. The helpfulness of pledge signing was discussed. Mrs. Ida Long gave a resume of the last county convention. M. A. Lownes told of the 25th anniversary of Willard Union in Philadelphia.

Caroline Craven gave extracts from E. B. Ely's address at Lemon Hill, telling how liquor harms the home. Miss Rhoads discussed the liquor traffic and how it affects the home; Mrs. Ida Long told how more people are destroyed by intoxicants, than from any other one agency.

Mrs. Scott considered the liquor traffic as a legalized outlaw and quoted chief Justice Coleridge:—"The history of crime is the history of the saloon."

A vocal solo was rendered by Mrs. Thorn, accompanied by Miss Chase, of Philadelphia.

One new member was gained by the union, several visitors were present.

The annual meeting of the Upper Dublin Horse company was held at Three Tuns inn on Monday. 22 members were present and elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: President, Jacob T. Comly; treasurer, D. Jarrett Kirk; secretary, J. E. Webster; committee on accounts, Isaac E. Ambler, Charles A. Paxson, Charles A. Livezey and Clarence Mullin.

The S. S. White team beat the Highland Gun Club last Saturday afternoon at Edge Hill, before a big and enthusiastic crowd by the score of 449 to 448. Cooke, Eames, Powers and Wilson made high scores for the White team and McCarty, David, Freeman and Tansey did the best work for Highland.

OBITUARY

MRS. ELLA H. DeCOURSEY.

The closing of a life in a community is seldom more universally regretted by old and young, rich and poor, than that of Mrs. DeCoursey. She was the elder daughter of Morris and Mary J. Hogeland, of Southampton. At an early age she was married to Holmes D. DeCoursey, going with him to the DeCoursey homestead at Hartsville, where the remainder of her life was spent. Here two children were born, Etta Long, wife of Charles S. Kratz, of Idaho, and Morris H., employed in a bank at Riverton, N. J.

Of her early life, all that need here be said is, that the loving spirit which characterized her youth marked her later years. Though in disposition gentle and retiring, she was never irresolute or vacillating.

Social in her tastes and habits, she cared very little for those conventionalities of society, which have no foundation in the real and substantial. The influence of her kindly spirit in the community was wide spread. A character so silent in its energy, and so noiseless in its activities, that from the bosom of that stillness seemed to be reflected much of the Divine goodness.

Best known and loved in the hearts of her family, the loss is irreparable. On Friday, November seventeenth, her body was laid in the quiet resting place on the Neshaminy hills, there to await a glorious resurrection.

MRS. J. P. CUNNINGHAM.

After a lingering illness, extending over the past twelve months, Mrs. Mary E. Cunningham, wife of P. J. Cunningham, the well-known piano manufacturer, died early last Saturday morning at her country home, in Elkins Park.

She was a daughter of the late Thomas Martin, a prominent Sullivan county farmer. She was born at 711 North Broad street. She was married in 1877.

Following an operation for internal malady, which was performed on her at the Samaritan Hospital last February, Mrs. Cunningham's physicians advised her to go abroad. She and her husband spent last summer touring Europe, but returned last September. Mrs. Cunningham entered St. Agnes Hospital but returned home a few weeks ago.

The funeral was held on Tuesday morning. Solemn requiem mass was celebrated at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Jenkintown. Interment was made in Old Cathedral Cemetery.

CHARLES HENRY JONES.

Charles Henry Jones, seventy-four years old, son of the late Congressman J. Chancy Jones, of Reading, Pa., died last Saturday at his home on Cloverly avenue, Jenkintown, after an illness of over a year.

Mr. Jones was a well-known lawyer with offices in Philadelphia, and up until a short time before his death had worked actively at his profession.

Mr. Jones was admitted to the Berks County bar in April, 1863, and in the same year he removed to Jenkintown, where he lived up until the time of his death.

He was a writer of note, having written a history of "The Campaign for the Conquest of Canada in 1776," "The Genealogy of the Rodman Family From 1620 to 1886," "Davault's Mills," "Recollections of Venice" and "A Pedestrian Tour Through Switzerland." For several years he was an attache at the American legation at Vienna, where his father served as Ambassador during President Buchanan's Administration. Mr. Jones was chairman of the Board of Managers of the Sons of the Revolution and the Council of the colonial Society of Pennsylvania. His wife died some time ago. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Robert M. Drayton and Miss Evelyn Jones.

JANE MATHER FOULKE.

Jane Mather Foulke, widow of Benjamin G. Foulke, for 70 years an active member of the Society of Friends was buried from her late residence in Quakertown, Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Foulke at the time of her death last Friday was 95 years old. She is survived by a son and two daughters.

JOHN J. CORSON.

John J. Corson, a real estate broker, died last Saturday at his home in Norristown, after a fortnight's illness. He was about seventy-five years old, and is survived by his wife and several children.

MARY J. BRYAN.

On Saturday, December 2, Mary J., widow of Ralph Bryan, and daughter of the late William and Sarah Knott, died. The funeral services were held on Wednesday in Philadelphia. The remains were viewed on Tuesday evening at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. J. Mendham, 319 Jefferson avenue, Cheltenham, Pa. Interment was made in Fernwood cemetery.

EVAN DAVIS CRAVEN.

Evan Davis Craven, son of Elwood Craven, died at the State Hospital, Norristown, last Sunday evening, after passing through an operation for a tuberculous growth in the chest, in his 57th year. The funeral was held from the home of his son, L. D. Craven, on Cedar street, interment at Northwood cemetery. He was born near Johnsville, Bucks county, and had lived in the vicinity of Jenkintown for over 30 years. He leaves one son, L. D. Craven, of our town, three brothers, Thomas B. Craven, of Jenkintown, John D. Craven, of Buckingham, and William L. Craven, of Hatboro, and four sisters, Mrs. Anna Cresson, of Lansdale, Mrs. Sarah Engle, of Fort Washington, Mrs. Amelia Rorer, of Jenkintown, and Mrs. Mattie Bates, of Jenkintown. He was a blacksmith by trade and an industrious man.

FRIENDS DISCUSS SWEDENBORG AND HIS DOCTRINES

Byberry Association Elects New Officers—Will Aid Poor.

The last meeting for 1911, of the Byberry Friends' Association was held December 3, at the meeting house with the president and secretary in their places. John Wood called the meeting to order and Edward Comly read the 12th chapter of Romans, and Sarah Warner Knight read the minutes of the last meeting.

A report of the Mt. Holly Conference was given by one of the five delegates attending, who said it was an exceptionally interesting program, given to a receptive and appreciative audience, and dwelt on certain of the addresses as especially illuminating.

The nominating committee made a report of those chosen to serve the Association next year as officers: President, William P. Bonner; vice president and treasurer, Amy C. Wildman; secretary, Gertrude Tomlinson; executive committee, John Wood, Jr., Rachel Knight, Elizabeth H. Bonner, James Bonner, Jr., and Elizabeth H. Comly.

The treasurer's report was given showing a small balance in the treasury.

Arabella Carter then introduced the subject of the "Swedenborgian" religion, by giving some account of Emanuel Swedenborg's life and experiences, and the doctrines, beliefs, faith and creed of the "Church of the New Jerusalem," commonly called Swedenborgian, the name being given in accordance with revelations, "behold I make all things new," when a new heaven and a new earth shall appear, their belief being that this is the new church to which all people must come.

In speaking of their belief in the oneness of God, and opposition to the vicarious atonement she said Friends could appreciate their feeling in this, also the fact that Swedenborg claimed a religion of practice, believing salvation is not by faith alone, as do Friends believe.

There being present a company from the Academy at Bryn Athyn, the subject was continued by invitation, by Rev. William H. Alden, a minister of the faith, who spoke of conditions before and at the time of Swedenborg, which gave rise to the intensity of his feeling for the world's salvation, and as the spiritual world was revealed to him, he interpreted the Scriptures with a new light, in the best place to learn of spiritual things is in the spiritual world. Swedenborg claimed that in 1857 the last judgment took place and the new church arose; the belief is that there cannot be external religion without internal religion, and that every man who looks to God as his source and lives according to the teachings, and strives toward the highest, although he falls short, is saved.

Questions were asked and remarks made by Elizabeth H. Conner, William P. Bonner, Edward Comly, Edwin K. Bonner and Arabella Carter, in which many interesting points were brought out. After announcement of the program for next meeting, to be held at Somerton on 7th to raise money for Guild fund was announced, and after discussion it was arranged that on 17th a meeting should be held to gather together donations for children reached by Neighborhood Guild, that their Christmas might be made brighter. In January the subject will be "Friends in Virginia," presented by Harry S. Bonner, a member of the Association, now living in Virginia.

WARMINSTER

ODD SCHOOL DIRECTOR TANGLE.

The school directors of Warminster township met last Monday at Dager's hotel and organized for the coming term. At the recent election, for directors there was a tie vote between James Harrar and Albert Montanye. According to the new school code, such a tie can be decided between the candidates within twenty days. These candidates failed to register their decision within the required time, although they sent a letter later stating that Mr. Harrar had stepped aside in favor of Mr. Montanye. The board after considering the communication, decided to follow the law and chose Benjamin G. Wood to fill the vacancy. Mr. Wood had previously been a member of the board, but had not stood for reelection. The board then organized by electing Harry Wright, president; Archibald Darrah, vice president; Benjamin G. Wood, secretary; Comly Walker, treasurer. The only new director is Mr. Darrah.

A horse belonging to the estate of Oliver Parry, of Warminster, which had become disabled from a split hoof, was on Tuesday appraised by men appointed by the Live Stock Company of North and Southampton and ordered killed. The company will pay $70 insurance.

The Warminster road supervisors reorganized on Monday last at a meeting held at Dager's hotel. The tax rate was made four mills. Lloyd Walker was re-elected president and Morris Hallowell, secretary. The position of treasurer held last year by Watson Davis, was not filled. D. S. Conard and George White were reappointed road masters.

Success is merely a matter of luck. If you don't believe it ask any unsuccessful man.

TIMELY TOPICS OF PLANTS AND PESTS DISCUSSED WEEKLY

By H. A. Surface, State Zoologist of Pa.

THE APPLE APHIS.

The Apple Aphis is the insect which causes the leaves to curl in the spring of the year. It is sometimes called the Apple plant louse, the Green fly, Green bug, etc. After it appears in the spring it causes the leaves to curl, and after these leaves are curled it is impossible to apply spray liquids to reach and destroy it. When the leaves are injured the damage to the tree is considerable, as the leaves perform the functions of both lungs and stomach.

It is by far best for growers to prevent damage by aphis by spraying in the winter time with the lime-sulfur solution, such as is directed for San Jose scale. It is to be killed at this time of year, or at any time during the dormant period by such spraying, because its eggs are now to be found as little black shiny points on the twigs, and especially near the buds of the apple trees. The same remedy is recommended for the blister mite, which is one of the serious enemies of the apple and pear leaves of this State.

THE CARE OF YOUNG TREES.

What to do for Young Trees Received From the Nursery Too Late for Fall Planting.

At this time of year many persons are writing to Prof. H. A. Surface, State Zoologist, Harrisburg, Pa., asking for information as to what to do with young trees which they are receiving from nurseries, but which cannot be planted owing to the freezing of the ground. They wish to know if they can be kept until spring, and if so, how. Such inquiries Professor Surface has replied to as follows:

"As long as the ground is not frozen hard, or is not too wet, you can plant the trees, and expect just as good, or even better results, than though they were planted in the spring; but, of course, when the ground is closed by hard freezing it is impossible to think of planting them, and arrangements should then be made for holding them until it thaws. They can be planted at any time when it thaws enough to work the soil, but planters should be careful that the trees are not set when the ground is too wet.

"A damp cellar is a good place in which to keep trees over winter. Three years ago I carried a cellar full during the entire winter with nothing over them but some sacking material, which was wet once or twice a month by throwing a little water over it just to help keep it damp. If the cellar is warm it should be cooled off by ventilation during cold weather.

"If no cellar is available one can dig through the frozen crust of earth and get down into the loose soil and make a deep trench in which the trees can be heeled in by burying the roots to a half foot in depth greater than they grew. Let the earth be mounded up well around them forming a ridge, and it will not be necessary to use straw, as this may possibly attract and protect mice. In very cold regions, however, it will be better to cover the young trees with corn fodder or some other protecting material."

SOLEBURY FARM CLUB.

The December meeting of the Solebury Farmers' Club was held at the home of Mrs. Edith Slack in New Hope last Saturday afternoon and evening. Fruit raising was discussed and it was said that raising the poorer quality of apples does not pay. A Bartlett pear orchard in the neighborhood last year yielded its owner a net profit of $1200 from three acres.

Farmers were advised to take more interest in the improvement of their local roads. It was stated that in spots mud holes had existed for months and no effort was made to make the road good. The following officers were chosen: President, Mark Palmer; vice president, Elizabeth Scott; recording secretary, Marion R. Ely; corresponding secretary, J. E. Scott; treasurer, John H. Ely; scrap book, Agnes S. Ely; executive committee, George H. Ely, Achsah L. Hurley, R. C. Foulke, Edna Wood, Catherine J. Quinby.

The club adjourned to meet at the home of Hugh B. Eastburn, of Doylestown, on Saturday, January 27, 1912.

FARM NOTES.

Arrange to haul all cornstalks, manure and other stable and barnyard refuse to the fields as fast as they accumulate during the fall and winter. Their richness will get into the soil where needed if they are in the field, but will lose their richness and become a nuisance if allowed to remain in and about the barn and stables. It is an easy thing to haul them out a load at a time, but a long and wearisome task to remove a half-year's accumulation when the warm spring days come.

After a sheep has passed its third year its wool begins to deteriorate. The best wool is obtained from a 2 or 3-year-old animal.

Where it will grow, medium red clover is ordinarily the best variety to grow. To grow simply for a green manure crop, mammoth clover is better. It is also better to sow with timothy on thin land. On such land the stems will not be coarser than the stems of the medium variety on rich land, and it ripens at the same time as timothy. Alsike is the clover for wet land.

A horse can be given from one to two pints of castor oil, sheep about four ounces, pigs two ounces and calves two to four ounces. In case of scours, it is best to give small doses, combined with laudanum. Castor oil is an excellent purgative.

The pulse of a horse may be felt by placing the finger of the right hand across the artery below the jaws. Hold the watch in the left hand and count the beats. From 32 to 38 per minute will denote a healthy animal. An irregular pulse is a strong symptom of disease.

PAY FOR LOCAL BALL PLAYERS.

North Penn League Games Will Cost $50 Each.

Radical departures will be made as concerns the economic end of the game in the conducting of North Penn Baseball League affairs during 1912. This condition develops although the organization ended the 1911 season with a fair balance in the treasury and practically every team, as an organization, finished strong financially.

The new status of affairs will be a regulation salary list, fixed by the laws of the league. Each team for each game will be limited in this manner: Pitcher, $10; catcher, $5; infield players, $3; outfield players, $2; additional to captain, $2. There will be a decided cut in umpiring salaries, the limit being $5 per game. Under this basis the league can be conducted at a cost of $50 per game per team, including salaries, traveling expenses, balls and equipment.

There will be a marked tendency in 1912 to include in the players' list of every team considerable of "home" talent. Doylestown favors the hired battery and hired infield, with local players in the outfield. Perkasie holds for five home and five out-of-town players.

MARRIES HIS DIVORCED WIFE.

Eugene A. Abbott, a member of the firm of A. Theodore Abbott & Co., upholsterers, with a place of business on Berkeley street, above Germantown avenue, and Mrs. Laura A. Abbott, of Elkins Park, from whom he had been divorced, were remarried last Saturday by the Rev. C. A. R. Janvier, pastor of the Holland Memorial church, Broad and Federal streets, Philadelphia. The ceremony was performed in the parsonage, 1405 South Broad street.

When Mr. Abbott secured his marriage license he gave his address as 2004 North Twelfth street, and his age as 38. He said Mrs. Abbott was 33 years old.

CHURCH REBUILT.

The congregation of St. Michael's Episcopal church, High and Main streets, Germantown, held their first service last Sunday in their enlarged church building. The rector is the Rev. Dr. A. H. Hord. The tower of the church was blown down last summer and the building badly damaged.

The building has been enlarged, a new nave built and a Norman tower, duplicating that of St. Mark's, of Canterbury, takes the place of the one blown down. The auditorium has a seating capacity of 500, and the interior has been richly furnished and finished in antique woodwork.

TOLLGATE HOUSE DESTROYED

Old Building, Just Sold by McNichol, Prey of Flames.

An old tollgate house at Oxford pike and Castor road, which was owned until Saturday by Senator McNichol, who sold it to George Brown, a farmer, was destroyed Sunday morning by fire of unknown origin. Laborers working in the neighborhood were in the habit of sleeping in the building, and it is believed that a lighted match dropped by one of them may have started the fire.

HORSE THROWS POLICEMAN

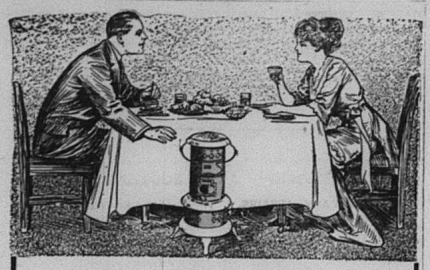

Slips in Snow and John Tremper Sustains Serious Injuries.

Thrown from his horse as the animal slipped in the snow while galloping along Second Street pike on Monday, John Tremper, a policeman of the Tacony station, received serious injuries.

Tremper is thought to have been the first person injured as the result of the first snow of the season. The accident occurred near Loney street, Fox Chase. The horse was going toward a signal box when it slipped in the snow and then fell to the road.

Tremper was catapulted over its head and his head struck the earth. The motorman of a trolley car that was going along the pike saw the policeman lying near the tracks and summoned aid. The policeman was injured about the head and it is thought internally. He was taken to Frankford hospital.

The most idle people in the world are those who never find time to do anything.

Better Food for Less Money

It is Costing You Too Much to Live

Groceries are your biggest item of living expense—hence you watch the cost closely:
You may have tried to "cut the cost of living" in many ways and failed to find a satisfactory method.
Here is a way by which you can save one third of your grocery money each month and at the same time have better food than you have ever had before.
Buy your groceries at wholesale prices from our big pure food grocery department. When the first shipment arrives at your home you will be astounded at the saving you have made. You will check over each item, compare our prices and quality with the prices you have been paying and the goods you have been getting. We know you will be pleased. We know what has been the experience of thousands of others who are now our regular customers.
All our foods are absolutely pure and scrupulously clean.
Samples of every article we sell are tested in our laboratories to make sure that they are fully up to our high standards of purity and wholesomeness. What other grocery store exercises so much care? Where else can you be so thoroughly protected? Our groceries are always fresh. The demands upon our grocery department are so heavy that goods never remain in stock long. For example, our sales run as high as thirty tons of rice a day, two car loads of prunes a day, a carload of raisins a day, thousands of pounds of coffee and tea daily; no merchandise remains long on our shelves growing stale and collecting dirt and dust. Everything is covered, all goods are packed and handled by automatic machinery and no human hand ever touches them. If space permitted, we would give hundreds of reasons why you should buy your groceries here even if you did not save a cent.

Montgomery Ward & Co. CHICAGO and KANSAS CITY
GROCERIES AND SPECIAL BARGAINS for SEPTEMBER and OCTOBER

We Will Reduce All of Your Expenses

Suppose for a moment that everybody you ever buy anything from—the grocer—the dry goods merchant—the hardware dealer—the tailor—all of them should call on you some fine morning and say, "We have come to tell you that from now on we are going to charge you from 20 to 50 per cent less than you have ever paid us before." You would be about the most surprised person and about the most pleased person in the land, wouldn't you? Of course, you would be. Now listen.
We are grocer, dry goods merchant, hardware dealer, tailor and in fact just about the "whole thing" in the matter of supplies of every kind to more than 2,000,000 delighted, satisfied customers. We are saving them from 20 per cent to 50 per cent every day in the year on everything they buy. We will do the same for you, if you will let us. We can and will save you from 20 per cent to 50 per cent on everything you buy and every single cent's worth of merchandise you receive from us will be the best value you ever saw for the price you pay. We guarantee absolute satisfaction with every purchase or no sale. Return the goods and get your money back plus the transportation charges if you have paid them. Could anything be fairer or more reasonable? Now cast your eye over the list of books just to your right and check the ones that interest you, clip the coupon and mail it to us. You will get the books in a day or two free of charge. Keep your money at home by saving all you can. Start to save now. You will never begin younger.

New Grocery List Every Two Months
We issue a brand new grocery list every two months. It will cost you nothing to write to us and tell us to put your name on our books so that monthly we may send you a list of this kind. It will prove a big "money saver" for you.

DAVISVILLE AND SOUTHAMPTON.

FIRE COMPANY AFFAIRS.

The following officers were chosen at the annual election of the Fire Company held on December 1st at Fitzpatrick's hall. George Shelmire, president; Thomas Leedom, vice president; Louis Harvison, secretary; Walter Yerkes, treasurer; O. Meyer, Jr., Chief; William Bussinger, assistant chief; Guy R. Leedom, second assistant chief; William R. Severns and H. Parker, trustees. Three new members were accepted as members, and applications received from two more residents for membership. It was decided to hold another entertainment during the month of January. The committee in charge intend same shall be furnished by home talent. O. Meyer, H. Parker and L. Lauer were appointed members of this committee. A committee was also appointed to take charge of the collection of old papers, which will be accumulated until a car load lot is secured, when they will be sold and funds added to building fund of Fire Company. The chief read a long report of the year's work and his recommendations for further equipment which was limited to small items, and ended by urging all members to work together to secure a fire house during the coming year. It is the general idea that this building should be large enough to afford a large hall on the second floor. Most of our residents are in hearty accord with this idea and have promised liberal assistance in securing same. An entertainment will be given each month for this fund. The Fire Company desires every resident to bear in mind that they are expected to save all old newspapers, etc., as the committee in charge of this matter will call for same every two or three weeks. The ladies in the Fire-Etus Social have taken up the proposition of forming a Ladies' Auxiliary, and important developments will soon follow.

VIOLET CLUB.

SOMERTON

To Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Sands, a daughter.

Jason Bowman has been on the sick list.

The gunners report rabbits getting very scarce.

The Somerton foot ball team will play the All Frankford eleven this Saturday.

The Dickens Club held their regular weekly meeting at the home of Miss Mary Knight.

A regular monthly meeting of the women's club was held in Ervin's hall on Saturday afternon last.

A number of our Democratic and reform supporters attended the Blankenburg parade in the city on Saturday evening last.

The Decatur Circle, Brotherhood of the Union, held a public reception in their new lodge rooms on Tuesday evening of this week.

The Somerton Building and Loan Association will hold their regular monthly meeting in Ervin's hall on Monday evening next.

The news of the resignation of Assistant Director Baldwin of the Bureau of Health and Charities was somewhat of a surprise to some of our residents.

Joseph Shuster, a telephone lineman, was picked up unconscious after falling from a telephone pole, and taken to Philadelphia hospital, where it was reported he was badly bruised and suffering from internal injuries.

Matthew Heist, our popular trucker, was kept busy on Sunday last receiving visitors from the surrounding country. The cause of Matthew's unusual activity, for he is a very busy man, was the exhibition of the results of the gunning trip to Maine, which consisted of eight deer and a 1200-pound moose. The other members of the hunting party who shared honors with Mr. Heist were his son, Thomas, Charles Mawson, of Newtown, and John Ridge.

EUREKA

Harry Swartley is on the sick list.

R. S. MacNair is making repairs to the interior of his house.

Miss Rebecca Thompson spent Thanksgiving holidays at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. I. L. MacNair recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson, of Chestnut Hill.

Mrs. Sarah Ann Frets entertained Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Haldeman and children, Mildred, Herbert and Orville, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Haldeman and children, Florence and Daniel, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Dannehower, and Miss Mary Ruth on Thanksgiving day.

CHELTENHAM

CHELTENHAM ATHLETIC CLUB.

Through the efforts of Messrs. Joseph Drock, John Stalker and John Dodds, the Cheltenham Athletic Club has been organized with these officials: President, Joseph Drock; vice president, William Davison; treasurer, James Tees; secretary, William Stilz; Board of directors, Dr. H. D. Johnson, William Way, Alfred Morton, Henry Krewson, William Rogers, James Tees and Charles W. Lovett. Regular meetings are held weekly and soccer and shooting will be the two principal sports to receive attention during the winter. The 1912 program includes base ball, track meets, marathons and tennis.

LEHIGH A. C. JOLTS CHELTENHAM

The Lehigh A. C. again duplicated its trick over Cheltenham soccer club by defeating them two goals to none. The great work of Lehigh's forwards, L. Busch, Pete Miller and Jesse Mair, was easily the feature of the game. Lehigh's full-backs, Kellner and Esslinger, played a brilliant game.

Mrs. George Herman spent Tuesday in Lansdale.

Seth Buckley was in Norristown on business on Monday.

Henry Barvis, Sr., is seriously ill at the home of his son, Charles Barvis, on Maple avenue.

The dramatic association held an entertainment in the fire house hall on Tuesday evening.

John Adams has dug a dry well in the cellar of Miss Mary Myer's house on Ryers avenue, to drain the water out of the cellar.

Frank Krewson has purchased a new automobile. He has also started to build a garage at his home the corner of Franklin and Elm avenues.

John Holden, recently elected school director, and Frank McCreary, the newly elected township commissioner took their seats in their respective offices on Monday.

The monthly meeting of the firemen of the Lower Montgomery County Association was held in the Cheltenham fire house on Saturday evening, with President Jones in the chair. Considerable business was transacted and it was decided to hold the annual banquet in Clayton's hall, Jenkintown, in January, 1912. The other place considered was Moore's Inn, Hatboro, Pa., but Jenkintown being more of a central point and easier to reach, the vote was carried for that place.

NESHAMINY

About $12 was made by the entertainment last Saturday night.

Miss Etta Long has returned to her home after visiting relations at Chestnut Hill.

Miss Grace Hendricks gave a very pleasant talk on Temperance at the chapel on last Sunday afternoon.

The school directors held their regular business meeting on last Monday night at the public house of Mahlon Keller.

A humorous lecture entitled "The Irish Wit of the English Language" will be given in the Methodist chapel by Rev. Howard R. McDade, of Doylestown, Saturday evening, December 16.

An entertainment for its benefit was given in the Methodist chapel last Saturday evening. A chorus of five little girls sang two selections, "The Sandman" and "Under the Bending Trees." Six girls and five boys rendered a dialogue "The Stormy Day." Miss M. Cora Fuller, principal of Buckingham High school, gave readings. Rev. H. R. McDade's address was a humorous talk describing the vacation of a country boy. He also gave one of James Whitcomb Riley's poems. A little play, "Trouble at Satterlee's," was given by seven young ladies. Instrumental music was rendered at intervals throughout the program by Miss May Meredith, of Doylestown.
